ROBINSON IS OPPOSED TO EXTRA TERM

Democratic Leader Would Avoid Special Session, "If Practicable"

AGAINST REPEAL PLANK

Thinks Party Won't Try to Shelve Prohibition in 1932 Platform

Washington—(AP)—Desire to avoid an extra session of congress was voiced today by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader upon his return to the capital.

Reiterating his stand for national prohibition, the Democratic leader predicted that the Democrats would not declare themselves for repeal of the eighteenth amendment in the 1932 platform. He expressed the opinion also that the prohibition amendment would not be repealed in the early future.

Senator Robinson issued a statement which he said was in substance that which he wrote to President Hoover recently regarding an extra session of the new congress.

The statement follows in full: "It seems to me that discussion now of the question whether an extraordinary session of the congress will be necessary following the fourth of March is premature. From my standpoint, it is desirable to avoid it if practicable."

POINTS TO LAST TERM

"The congress was in extra ordinary session throughout the spring and summer of 1929. We dealt principally with the agricultural problem and with the tariff in its relation to farm relief.

"The Hawley-Smoot act gave impetus to economic depression. It did more harm than good.

"The Farm Marketing act has not been effective to reverse the downward tendency of agriculture. Conditions have been steadily growing worse until in many parts of the country economic and business distress is appalling.

"In my judgment it is imperative that measures of an emergency character be acted upon as speedily as possible.

"While no doubt other important subject will also require attention by the congress, I regard it as indispensable to the public welfare that all cooperate in the passage of measures for relief in the drought stricken areas.

"The unemployment situation is acute and demands consideration.

"It is quite doubtful whether the intense agitation of partisan differences which cannot be reconciled, will be helpful while both houses of the congress are evenly divided and the executive is in control of the Republicans.

"Of one thing I am certain. It is no part of my duty to filibuster against appropriation bills, and I have no intention of doing so.

DOESN'T SUPPORT G. O. P.

"Readiness to cooperate in the passage of appropriation bills and emergency measures in no sense implies support on my part of the policies of the Republican party or approval of its record.

"To determine now that an extra session is unavoidable inevitably will result in postponement of action on measures and subjects which ought to be disposed of during the regular session."

Aside from his prepared statement, Robinson expressed surprise that his letter to the White House had not been made public.

Robinson added that his statement today was "substantially corroborative" of his message to the president.

DAMMANN, REYNOLDS ACTION IS DROPPED

Madison—(AP)—Actions to oust Theodore Dammann, Secretary of state, and John Reynolds, attorney general, have been definitely abandoned, was learned here today from Randolph R. Conners, Madison attorney.

Mr. Conners prompted the move against Dammann, Reynolds and Lieut. Gov. Henry Huber by filing a petition for the appointment of special state's counsel with Gov. Walter Kohler. Gov. Kohler complied with the request but the actions never reached the courts.

Bandit King In Mexico At End Of Trail

Mexico City—(AP)—"Shot and killed while attempting to escape" was written today on the records of the department of justice after the name of Baldomero Navarro, who acknowledged no man's law, and whose defiance with two guns won him the title of "El Maestro" of Mexican banditry.

Until a week ago Navarro and a few bold companions roamed the mountains around Cuernavaca, descending to the highway from Mexico City occasionally for a hold-up which astonished with its daring. Once, it is believed, they nearly succeeded in kidnapping Ambassador Morrow as he drove to his country home in the Morelos capital.

Last week federal troops pursued him in vain for years, captured and executed through his men. There followed a running fight with Navarro across mesa and through arroyo, until a shot clipped his horse from under him and he was captured.

He was brought to Mexico City and questioned by federal authorities. A long series of crimes with which the government connected him, ranged from highway banditry to the murder of Abraham Rosenthal, American, who was captured on the Cuernavaca road and put to death three years ago when ransom arrangements fell through.

Friday the federal authorities turned him over to troops of the state of Morelos in which most of his offenses were committed, and he turned to page 10 col. 6

BUILDING TO MEASURE 128 BY 89 FEET

Front of Structure Will be of Stone, Government Reports

Construction of Appleton's new $260,000 postoffice at the southwest corner of N. Superior and W. Washington-sts. will be started about next April, according to word received here today from Washington. The new building is to be of classic design, the front on N. Superior-st. consisting of a portico with Corinthian columns of stone. The side elevation on Washington-st. will have a plaster treatment of the same order.

The building will have a frontage of 89 feet on Superior-st. and a depth of 128 feet, providing a ground area of 11,392 square feet. It will have a basement and the front portion will be two stories high. The present postoffice has a frontage of 50 feet on Oneida-st. and a depth of 55 feet ground area of 4,118 square feet, or less than half the room available in the new building.

Appleton's present postoffice was constructed in 1911 at a cost of $69,000. It was completed and occupied in 1912. Increased business soon made the building too small and 2 rural carriers are forced to work on a balcony which is designed to care for only half the number of workers it really accommodates. In addition the rural mail carriers have been forced to use the basement lounge room for their work.

During rush periods the working space on the main floor is crowded the clerks have difficulty handling the mail. During the Christmas season it is necessary to utilize space in the basement to accommodate the heavy influx of mail.

FRONT OF STONE

The exterior of the new building will be of light buff brick, with a stone base from grade to the first floor level. There will be a stone cornice and trim. The front portico, two stories in height, is to be entirely of stone.

Wide and generous proportions will mark the lobby of the new postoffice, with ample space for service windows and lock boxes in the post-office screen. The floor will be of terrazzo with marble borders. The walls are to be of plaster with marble base and a high wainscoting of imitation Caen stone. The new lobby turned to page 4 col. 4

Artist's Sketch Of City's New Postoffice

Ground will be broken for the new postoffice, an artist's sketch of which is shown above, next April, government officials predict. The structure, which will be located at the southwest corner of N. Superior and W. Washington-sts., will measure 128 by 89 feet. The front portico will be entirely of stone. The increased room will amply accommodate this city's demands for postal service for many years to come, it is expected.

MELZER IS CLEARED BY CORONER'S JURY

Appleton Man Freed of all Blame in Death of Sheboygan Resident

Charles Melzer, 117 S. State-st., was cleared by a coroner's jury Tuesday morning, of all blame in the death of Reinhardt Behnke, 56, Sheboygan, as result of injuries received when struck by a car driven by Melzer.

It was brought out at the hearing that Behnke stepped off the sidewalk in front of Melzer's car at the corner of N. Eighth-st. and Pennsylvania-ave., Sheboygan, about 9 o'clock Saturday evening, Nov. 15.

The man was taken to St. Nicholas hospital at Sheboygan where it was said his injuries were not serious. The next day he was removed to his home and a few days later complications set in which caused death.

A coroner's jury then was called for Tuesday morning. Melzer and Jacob Verrier, the latter riding with Melzer, were among those who testified.

VOTE ON DATES OF '31 NORTHEASTERN FAIR

Green Bay—(AP)—Directors of the northeastern Wisconsin fair will be asked to decide at their next meeting whether the dates of the 1931 fair shall be advanced to include Sunday.

Stockholders have voted two to one in favor of advancing the opening day, but the Presbyterian church and the Rotary club of De Pere have entered protests.

Newly chosen fair officers are S. E. Brown, Green Bay, president; Judge Henry Graess, Green Bay, vice president; Robert Vickary, Sun-ami, treasurer, and Herbert J. Smith, De Pere, secretary.

ECONOMIC PARTY TAKES BACKING FROM BRUENING

Berlin—(AP)—Chancellor Bruening's government ran into new difficulties today when the Economic party notified the chancellor that it no longer supported the cabinet.

Johannes Siegel, minister of justice and a member of the Economic party, accordingly has presented his resignation.

The party's action was based on a decision not to support any government influenced directly or indirectly by the Socialists. The party charged Chancellor Bruening with relying for support on the Social Democrats "at the sacrifice of the vital interests of the German people and German economy."

This is the second time that Bruening's resignation has been imminent. Last October, the Economic party announced it was withdrawing from the cabinet but President von Hindenburg persuaded the minister to remain in the government as a duty to the Reich. It was generally believed the president again would request Bruening to remain in order to avoid a cabinet crisis.

Death Takes Missionary And Doctor

New London—Dr. Frederick Schneider, 30, pioneer missionary and physician, died at his home here at 7 o'clock Monday evening after a week's illness. During his illness his one wish had been that he might live to celebrate his 60th wedding anniversary which fell on Saturday. The aged couple had planned a celebration for Sunday, which was not carried out. Flowers which were sent from friends for the anniversary surrounded the aged man at the time of his death.

Born May 16, 1880, at Boenstadt, province of Hesse, Germany, Frederick Schneider was trained at the Health and Medical gymnasium at Friedberg for a religious life. He completed his medical course at the age of 18 and in 1898 he was sent to America where he entered Concordia college, St. Louis. Here he studied Hebrew and Greek, and passed his examinations in 1910. His first mission was founded at Concord, Wis. This church in the forests he named for the mother college, and it was here that he was ordained as a minister of the gospel on July 31, 1910. He married Miss Dorothea Louise Christian, Nov. 22, 1910, and brought her to the little combination church and home. He served his first pastorate at an annual salary of $300.

Later he served parishes in Lebanon, Dodge-co., Waterford, Racine-co., and with these points as headquarters he preached in Beloit, East Troy and many other small towns.

ROBBERS THREATEN VILLAGERS; BLOW UP SAFE IN BANK

Hamilton—(AP)—Six robbers threatened death to numerous townfolk of Gratis, near here early today, and cut all communication wires into the village to prevent interference as they exploded six charges of dynamite to break the safe of the Gratis State bank. They escaped with $5,000.

During the robbery, three of the robbers stood outside the bank and shouted to villagers who, aroused by the explosions had leaped out of windows, to "get back in there or we'll blow your heads off."

William Guntle said when he looked out on the street, he faced the muzzles of two shotguns. Other residents had similar experiences. The robbers found threats were sufficient for the purpose and fired no shots.

RECOMMEND BAIL FOR LEVINE IN AUSTRIA

Vienna—(AP)—The Vienna Bar Association today recommended release on bail of the American, Charles A. Levine, who is being held here on suspicion of counterfeiting. The association recommended bail of $7,000.

Levine's attorneys yesterday handed the superior court a petition for the release of their client on bail and this was passed along to the bar association for its consideration.

The Vienna police charged that Levine ordered dies and matrices to enable him to coin French money. Levine denied such an intention and said he had ordered dies from which he could cast medals for distinguished airmen.

FAVORS ABOLITION OF "LAME DUCK" CONGRESS

Washington—(AP)—Killing the "lame duck" congress has been prevented by the house for these many years, but at least one majority member of the rules committee is for it now.

Representative Michener, Republican, Michigan, today predicted the Norris resolution to eliminate the short session would pass the house at this term.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, the Independent Republican, named this resolution as one item in the four-point program on which he demands action as the price of averting a possible extra session in the spring. Through amendment to the constitution it would deprive defeated representatives of legislative power and seat each congress two months after election.

"If the people see fit to bring about a change in government by electing a new congress," said Michener, "it should become effective as quickly as possible. As it is, the new congress comes in a year later, when many questions new members are pledged to carry out, may never be met."

WOMAN WHO STABBED DAUGHTER IS INSANE

Wausau—(AP)—Mrs. Arthur Wix, 31, who stabbed her daughter, Beatrice, 4, to death last week, was adjudged insane at a hearing before County Judge G. J. Leicht today and was committed to the Winnebago State Hospital. She was not arraigned on the murder charge, which will remain against her in case of her recovery.

Hoover Says More Laws Not Needed

Washington—(AP)—Enforcement of state and federal laws and a "widespread public awakening" were put forward today by President Hoover as a solution to the problem presented by gangster activities.

The text of the president's remarks:

"The report that I am proposing to congress any extension of the federal criminal laws to cover racketeering is untrue.

"Every single state has ample laws that cover such criminality.

"What is needed is the enforcement of those laws and not more laws.

"Any suggestion of increasing the federal criminal laws in general is a reflection on the sovereignty and the stamina of state government.

"The federal government is assisting local authorities to overcome a hideous gangster and corrupt control of some local governments. But I get no satisfaction from the reflection that the only way that this can be done is for the federal government to convict men for failing to pay income taxes, on the financial product of crime against state laws.

"What we need is a more widespread public awakening to the failure of some local governments to protect their citizens from murder, racketeering, corruption and other crimes and their rallying of support to the men of these localities that are today making a courageous battle to clean up these places."

FLEXIBLE IMMIGRATION

More selective and flexible immigration laws were held by President Hoover today to be needed.

The chief executive's immigration views were expressed as in general agreement with those recently announced by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania.

Reed proposed stopping of all immigration from both quota and non-quota countries.

The president did not say he specifically favored this plan, but pointed out recent action by the government in cutting down immigration by a strict application of the rules, including one which would exclude all persons who might become public charges.

RUSS NOT RULING TARGET

President Hoover said today that the announcement of recent treasury regulations with regard to barring of goods made by convict labor was not directed against Russia.

The treasury regulations were asserted by the chief executive to be in compliance with general laws directed against goods manufactured by convicts. He said the government did not intend trade conflicts with the Soviet. On the other hand, he expressed hope that economic relations would be carried on with Russia as with other countries.

Proposed Alaska Pulp And Power Plans Mapped Out

Washington—(AP)—American plans to break the virtual newsprint monopoly of Canada through establishment of power and paper plants in Alaska today were before the Federal Power commission.

At its first session since August, the commission considered application for license to construct two such projects to cost approximately $30,000,000.

Potential pulp production in Alaska is estimated at 800 tons daily or approximately 1,000,000 tons yearly by B. F. Heintzleman, forest service expert. The two pending proposals plan a maximum production of 800 tons yearly, or approximately 350,000 tons yearly.

George T. Cameron, publisher of the San Francisco Chronicle and Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times sought permission for the Juneau project, which would require $5,000,000 for power development and approximately $10,000,000 for the paper and pulp plant. Three power sites at Long, Crater and Dorothy lakes, with an estimated 80,000 horsepower capacity, are requested.

J. and J. D. Zellerbach, paper manufacturers, of San Francisco, have applied for permission to develop the project near Ketchikan, four power sites near Grace, Mirrow, Ella, Manzanita and Swan lakes, with estimated production of approximately 70,000 horsepower. The cost for the combined power and pulp plants approaches $15,000,000.

Opposition to the application of the Zellerbach brothers has been filed by James T. Jones of Tacoma, Wash., in a suit now before the District of Columbia Supreme court. In it he requested an injunction against the power commission to prevent granting of the license.

J. P. MORGAN AWARDED DEGREE BY OXFORD U.

Oxford, Eng., (AP)—J. P. Morgan, in a flowing scarlet gown and "bachelor" hat, walked through narrow, cobble-paved ways far more ancient than wall-street today to receive the highest honor of England's oldest university, the degree of doctor of civil laws conferred by Oxford.

The little procession, headed by four mace-bearers, marched through the streets without attracting a second glance from shopkeepers and square-aped undergraduates to whom medieval pagers are every-day affairs.

But it was the sort of scene which would have stopped traffic in New York's financial district.

ESKIMO GIRLS ENTER FIRST BEAUTY CONTEST

Winnipeg—(AP)—Away up in the frozen north a shiny-faced black-haired Eskimo beauty is going to be crowned "Miss Northwest Territories" some time during the winter.

Andrew Brown of Baker lake, an isolated Chesterfield inlet trading post, plans to stage a beauty contest among the ladies of the neighboring tribes. A mirror-rarity in the Arctic will be the prize.

Brown says Eskimo girls pay more attention to personal adornment since white men entered the territory. Many have taken to wearing skirts, instead of fur knickers.

Plane Wreckage May Solve Fate Of Missing Air Party

White Horse, Yukon Territory—(AP)—The wreckage of an airplane in the headwaters of the Liard river, was believed today to hold the secret of the fate of Captain E. J. A. Burke, Canadian flier, and two companions who were lost in that area Oct. 11.

Weeks of search by airplane were climaxed yesterday when Pilot E. L. Wasson returned to White Horse and reported sighting the wreckage, a shortage of gasoline compelled him to return without landing. He arranged today to fly to a landing point 15 miles from the scene of the wreck and "mush" to the headwaters with Joe Walsh, a woodman.

Wasson said the terrain at the headwaters of the Liard river was too rough to permit a landing. He believed a visit to the wreckage would reveal a message or other clues to the fate of Burke and his companions, Emil Kadling and Robert Marten, prospectors.

The Burke party was lost while flying from the Liard river mining district to Atlin, B. C., after a prospecting trip. They were last sighted about 50 miles south of Liard post. Wasson said it appeared the plane was forced down. It was frozen in a very narrow part of the river, he said.

Meanwhile, on the coast of North ern British Columbia, two United States navy planes and two Canadian planes continued the search for Pilot Robin Renaham and two companions, lost Oct. 25 while flying north to aid in the search for Burke. Adverse weather held the four planes to the ground yesterday and prevented the coast guard cutter Gyagan, at Behm Canal harbor, from continuing the search.

Rumors at Vancouver, B. C., that Renaham's plane had been sighted, were not confirmed by reports from Prince Rupert.

PARIS HOMES IN DANGER

Gales Die Down but Lowered Barometers Threatening New Storms

Paris—(AP)—A heavy rainstorm set in this afternoon increasing the flood menace.

Water began to ooze into the cellars of the foreign ministry building on the left bank of the Seine. Valuable documents were removed and pumps were installed.

The lower suburbs of Paris have been especially hit by the flood.

The streets of Viry-Chattillon are flooded, forcing inhabitants from their inundated homes or forcing those who insisted on remaining. Many houses seemed in danger of collapsing.

At Choisy-le-Roi most houses could only be approached by boats or by wading. At Alfortville the waters have flooded cellars and are gradually mounting to the first floors. At Issy-les-Moulineaux 20 houses on a little island called Chabanne were evacuated, 86 persons being rescued. Caravans appeared in the earth and there was fear the houses would collapse.

LANDS ARE FLOODED

London—(AP)—Flood waters washed over farms and through populous cities and towns today in England, Ireland, Belgium, Holland, France and Germany, spreading damage and destruction.

The gales which lashed western Europe and Great Britain over the weekend died down during the night, leaving many slides and lowered barometers which threatened another blow. Estimates on the number of deaths charged to the storm ranged between 40 and 50.

In Paris a further rise of 20 inches in the level of the Seine was forecast but municipal authorities did not believe the city could be flooded with less than a 40-inch rise. The river already is over plans and so high that navigation is impossible. Several suburbs are under water and 3,500 are homeless at Viry-Chattillon alone.

Water receded from the Belgian lowlands in some localities, but the area along the scheldt between Antwerp and Termonde continued in the grip of one of its worst floods in years. Bitter criticism of the government for not having provided against further flood catastrophes by strengthening the scheldt's dikes was heard in many quarters. The Kiel hospital at Antwerp had to be evacuated because of rising water.

TOWNSHIPS UNDER WATER

Holland suffered also from the floods. Several townships including Zwolle and Brouwershaven were inundated. The Nethe dike between Lier and Uffel was breached in 20 points and the harbor wall and sea dike at Bergenpoozoon has broken down. The Maas and Waal rivers have flooded large areas. The Rhine and Moselle in southern Germany still threatened.

Most areas in western and eastern counties of England were under water today, not at a great depth, but sufficient to interrupt communications and isolate scattered dwellings. The rivers are greatly swollen and the mountain streams of Wales have been converted into raging torrents. There was several inches of flood water in parts of Belfast, northern Ireland.

The rivers of northwest France continued to rise today and there was no prospect apparently for dry weather. The Seine and its tributaries, the Varne, Yonne, Aube, and Saone, and streams and brooks which feed them, swelled and submerged thousands of acres and fields, inundating the low-lying quarters of riverside towns.

Try To Send Sammons Back To Prison On Old Charge

1903 SLAYING TO BE BASIS FOR ACTION

"Public Enemy" May be Forced to Serve 30 Years Or Unexpired Term

Chicago—(AP)—Efforts to put another "public enemy" behind state prison bars were reported underway today.

James (Fur), Sammons, paroled convict and reputed bad gang gunman, whose criminal record, police said, dated back for more than 30 years, was the object of the latest assault by the authorities.

A ruling by Oscar D. Carlstrom, attorney general of Illinois that Sammons was subject to arrest and return to the penitentiary to serve an unexpected 30 years of a 50-year term for murder in connection with the slaying in 1903 of Patrick Barrett, a saloonkeeper, formed the basis for the contemplated action.

The attorney general, in an opinion given to W. C. Jones, chairman of the state board of pardons and paroles, held that the parole law did not apply to a committed sentence, such as Sammons had received after he had been sentenced to death for the saloonkeeper's death. The Herald and Examiner said that Chief Justice John McGoorty of the criminal court already had indicated he would sign an order for Sammons' return to prison.

BARKER IN PRISON

If such action is taken Sammons, now in jail pending a move for a new trial on a vagrancy charge, will be the second of the hoodlums named by the Chicago Crime commission as "public enemies" to be returned to prison for old offenses. George (Red) Barker, alleged labor racketeer, recently was sent back to the state reformatory at Pontiac as a parole violator. Barker was subsequently transferred to the state penitentiary at Joliet.

Almost simultaneously with the attorney general's ruling came a report that Sammons, who was the first of the "public enemies" to be convicted of vagrancy, had been named by the grand jury in a true bill returned under the habitual Criminal act. This charge was reported to have been based on Sammons' part in the theft of government alcohol from a warehouse four years ago.

The grand jury, meanwhile, was also reported to be contemplating a request for a special jury to investigate the Chicago police department. The present jury has had this subject under inquiry but there were indications last night that no indictments would be forthcoming, when its final report was issued.

FINISH TESTIMONY IN $11,000 SUIT

Expect Case Will go to Jury In Circuit Court This Afternoon

Testimony in the $11,000 suit for damages which opened Monday morning in circuit court before Judge Edgar V. Werner was completed shortly before noon today. A. E. Harriman, 1140 E. Pacific, is seeking damages from the Wisconsin Power company for alleged permanent injuries he claims he received when he slipped and fell from the steps of a power company bus.

The accident occurred in February, 1928, at Menasha. Harriman claims it was caused because the power company had negligently permitted ice to form on the steps of the bus. The power company denies negligence and asks dismissal of the suit. Attorneys' arguments were expected to take place Tuesday afternoon and the case probably will go to the jury late in the day.

Members of the jury are: Emma M. Barclay, Appleton; Theodore H. Brunke, Appleton; Edward DeBruin, route 5, Seymour; Dan Devine, route 5, Appleton; George Dieckrick, route 1, Appleton; Mrs. Elma Hansen, Seymour; William F. Hoehne, Kaukauna; Oscar W. Two more associate members were admitted to the Appleton Rainbow Veterans' organization at a meeting last night at the cottage on Lake Winnebago. It was the last meeting of the year at the cottage, as the winter meetings will be held at the armory. The veterans approved the proposal of the Rainbow Ladies to hold a series of card parties at the armory to raise funds to pay on the cottage debt. After the business meeting a rabbit lunch was served.

WHEAT PANIC IS PREVENTED BY FARM BODY

Board Played Important Part in Stabilization of Prices

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1930, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—(CPA)—With congress just about ready to discuss seriously an alternative for the Federal Farm Board act, the news is gradually leaking out of the dramatic way in which the farm board saved the nation from what might have become a disastrous panic in agricultural prices.

Senator Capper is one of the first to acknowledge the part the farm board played in stabilizing wheat prices at Chicago a week ago. "A few days ago," he says "A panic seemed inevitable. Wheat had fallen 5 cents a bushel in Winnipeg, 18 cents less than the same grade in Chicago. Liverpool's prices were the lowest in 36 years, in the Argentine a 7 cent slump was registered in two days. The Chicago market, uneasy and gloomy, sagged and sagged. Despite an unusually short crop, corn dropped 3 cents—a sympathetic reaction. Disaster spread black wings over the pit."

"At this juncture the stabilization corporation which had been looking anxious but doing nothing for some time, received an unexpected nod of favor from the farm board. Immediately things began to happen. Rumors of government support spread like sunshine over the mournful wheat exchange."

HALF SHAKY SELLING

"Farmers sighed relievedly, 'at last.' Traders breathed more freely and faint hearts grew strong. Wheat quotations that hung perilously at the brink of ruin avidly seized the life preserver, righted themselves and stood firm. Shaky selling stopped."

"The Chicago price for December wheat was held at 73 cents, the May option at 76 cents. And lest it be forgotten, the tariff of 42 cents a bushel on wheat was no mean factor in the process of stabilization. The result of this timely action was that American wheat today is selling far above the world level. Liverpool prices, normally 12 to 20 cents a bushel over Chicago during the past week have been 2 to 5 cents lower than ours."

Mr. Capper analyzed the situation as one in which the farm board will continue to buy wheat merely to prevent further unwarranted declines and to stop panic selling, but will not buy to cause an increase in price or to corner the market. He speaks of this reversal of the farm board's policy as surprising but he hopes it will be continued.

There is no doubt that the emergency at Chicago required a break-

PROBE WHIPPING OF FRESHMAN AT U. OF OKLAHOMA

Norman, Okla.—(AP)—Another flogging, allegedly at the hands of the D. D. M. C. secret society at the University of Oklahoma, attracted the attention of university officials today.

Sam Kaplan, a freshman, reported to W. W. Kraft, superintendent of utilities at the institution, that he was taken from his room after midnight last Wednesday night and struck ten times with a belt by a score or more robed and hooded men with the D. D. M. C. insignia emblazoned across their chests.

Kaplan said the men told him he had been found guilty of being a "stool pigeon" and informer of campus infractions of the "no car" rule. He exhibited red and blue welts, Kraft said, and denied he had reported any infractions.

The utilities superintendent said he would take the matter up with W. B. Bizzell, president of the university.

ing of all rules and that the country hardly realizes the seriousness of the crisis which faced the nation when the farm board decided to keep the price of wheat from falling. Now that the critical moment is over and the board has succeeded in stabilizing the price of wheat the question arises as to what will happen to all the wheat that has been bought through the farm board. Mr. Capper thinks it might be given to unemployed by appropriation of congress. Certainly the withdrawal of a large amount of wheat from the market would raise the price. Just as the cotton stabilization corporation merely withdrew the commodity it had bought temporarily so the argument now is being made that a similar withdrawal would help the wheat market. Mr. Capper points out that government money saved the country from financial disaster and that in principle he sees no difference between what has just happened and the lending of government funds to shipping lines.

"I see no Socialism in what was done," said Senator Capper "But I do see good business sense on the part of the government. Wherefore, then, these cries from the industrial east? Is it nothing that the American wheat industry has been saved from certain and overwhelming ruin? Is it nothing that the world market in a vital commodity has been rescued from utter demoralization in a time of crisis?"

The significance of the foregoing remarks is that they indicate a trend toward defense of the farm board at passage of the export debenture plan a time when some of the western senators were beginning to press for the passage of the export debenture plan which was only another way of expressing lack of confidence in the federal farm board as congress convenes the farm board starts with more friends from the agricultural regions than it has had at any time since it began its experiments with the stabilization process.

ITALY MAKES TRADE TREATY WITH RUSSIA

Grandi and Litvinoff Framing Second Party of Commercial Pact

Rome, Italy—(AP)—Observers were confident today that yesterday's conference between Foreign Minister Dino Grandi and Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet envoy, was a step in framing the second part of the important Italian-Russian trade treaty signed last August.

The treaty did not specify what Italy was to buy from the Soviets. Under its terms Russia agrees to buy $10,000,000 of Italian manufactured goods during 1930 and 1931. A 75 per cent government credit over five years is assured to the sellers, leaving as a gamble a 25 per cent margin of profit.

When the treaty was under discussion last year, it became known that an American oil firm was dickering to supply oil and gasoline to Italy. These negotiations were broken off by the Italian government, which informed the Americans that Italy would buy her oil from Russia.

At the same time permission was given "Petrolia" the Russian oil concessionaires here, to build two refining plants. Well informed opinion holds that the Russian organization was formed as a distributing organization to flood this part of Europe with cheap Soviet oils.

NEEDS RUSSIAN GOODS

Another phase of the situation is that Italy needs supplies of cheap lumber, coal and ore, all of which Russia has in plenty and there is a pressing need for building up Italian industry to offset the country's tremendous military expenses.

Italians find themselves in such a position as to be unafraid of Russian "dumping," because all Russia's products are badly needed in Italy and the American tariff wall cuts off Italy's most important market.

Since the present treaty has an extension clause providing for its renewal over two one-year periods on an increasing scale of fifteen million dollars in Russian purchases here, it is regarded as likely that Italy is now ready to specify just what Russian products and how much of them she will need during the first one year period.

Macine—(AP)—A body identified by police as that of Milo H. Barhart, Flint, Mich., was found in the Root river here yesterday. Authorities said it had been in the water for some time.

Stark Has Real System To Guard Against Dogs

Chief among the problems of Appleton mail carriers is the dog problem, and for years local mailmen have been trying to determine how Louis Stark, veteran carrier, managed to come through unscathed, without a dog bite to his credit. Louis Stark, who also boasts of his skill as a hunter, fisherman, and lover of wild life, recently told his fellow carriers about his ability as a dog trainer, and how he deals with dogs on his mail route.

"Kindness is the first essential, and 'sausage' is the second," Louis said. "As long as you keep feeding them sausage, and get 'em to like both you and the bologna, you'll get along all right."

For years Mr. Stark has adhered to the practice of carrying sausage with him, so that in case of an emergency he'll be able to subdue the angry canine with his old system.

Louis said that in only one case was he obliged to resort to punishment, and that was when a dog jumped at him. A light tan with a meal strap scared him, and a piece of sausage put him in good humor, Louis stated.

coughs and SORE THROAT

To increase the stimulative effect reddens the skin over the throat and upper chest with hot wet towels before applying Vicks.

Here's comforting relief for coughs and sore throat:

Every few hours, place a little Vicks on the tongue and let it trickle slowly down the throat as it melts.

When there is much irritation or coughing, stronger vapor action will be helpful. Melt a teaspoonful of Vicks in boiling water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes.

At bedtime, rub Vicks vigorously over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Relief is two-fold: by stimulation through the skin, Vicks draws out the soreness, like a plaster; at the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the body-heat, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages.

NEW COOPERATIVE STARTS HANDLING MILK IN JANUARY

Shawano Organization to Push Drive for More Members This Week

BY W. F. WINSEY

Shawano — Nine hundred members of the Consolidated Badger Cooperative assembled in the armory here Monday and decided to begin handling milk in several of the proposed plants on Jan. 1, if not in all of them. If any of the five plants cannot be equipped before that date they will be started as soon after as possible. Dec. 10 was set as a dead line for charter members to sign contracts. About the middle of December a mass meeting will be held in Shawano to elect directors and officers of the cooperative. On Tuesday and Wednesday the members of the cooperative in each township will divide in small teams and cover the township in two days. In the two days the members are expected to sign up 500 members more.

The mass meeting to be held in Shawano about the middle of December will elect six directors one to represent each proposed milk plant, and tree at large. As is the usual custom the directors will elect the officers of the cooperative. The directors and officer will select a general manager of wide experience, and managers of the local plants and will be the governing body until their successors are elected by the members of the cooperative.

The National Cheese Producers' federation is to act as the sales agency for the consolidated Badger Cooperative.

CORNELIA SKINNER WINS ART LOVERS IN FINE PROGRAM

Personality and Mastery of Characterizations Pleases Audience

Captivating her audience completely and holding it entranced until the very end, Cornelia Skinner, daughter of the great O. S. Skinner, won the hearts of art lovers in Appleton when she appeared in a group of character sketches as the second number of the Community Artist series Monday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. The sketches were of artistic quality and with an audience which proved itself completely attuned to the great artist and followed each word and gesture, with enthusiastic appreciation.

Depleting an American woman in the throes of packing to leave Paris for her own country, Miss Skinner showed complete mastery of the art of characterization. With a gesture, a mere facial expression she took her audience from an amused smile to a laugh of real enjoyment, and with a sudden change of voice tone she put an entirely new character on the stage before them. She showed a very real sympathy and a profound knowledge of human nature in the sketch. In A Gondola, and although she took the part of but one character, she was never alone on the stage, for she created the illusion of a supporting cast superbly, and painted a picture, with each character made to stand out in the mind's eye. The transition from humor to pathos was so subtle that it was hardly noticeable.

Once in a hazy limbo between laughter and tears.

A Lady Explorer gave a purely humorous picture of an English lecturer speaking before an American geographical society about her experiences among the heathen.

AFTERMATH OUTSTANDING

Perhaps the outstanding sketch of the program in emotional appeal was Aftermath, in which Miss Skinner played the part of a young mother with a sick child. An undercurrent of nervous tension held the audience in its grip until the final scene, and the intense emotional scene left one with a conviction of the real greatness of the artist.

Transforming herself, with the aid of a hat and shawl from an extremely attractive young woman, she played the part of a woman who had been "working out a system" for beating the game for 35 years. Motoring in the Nineties and Home Work gave the artist an opportunity of displaying her extreme versatility and kept the audience in chuckles.

A French poem, Le Vent de Novembre, impressed the listeners with the superb control of voice of the reader, the tones rising and falling as with the cadences of the wind, making the audience shiver with its realism. As a second encore she presented Sailing Time on the Olympic.

The audience seemed insatiable and Miss Skinner was called back time after time to respond to rounds of applause. Her great personal charm won the audience from the

STEEL PRICES SOON DUE FOR RISE, BELIEF

Otis Steel Co. Head Says Increase Will Help Keep Wages Up

Cleveland, Ohio.—(P)—Increase in prices of steel products has "simply got to come," E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Company and Midland Steel Products Company, Inc., of Cleveland, said today.

He said he could not predict how soon increases would be put into effect or how great they would be. Kulas' statement followed published reports that steel interests shortly would announce moderate increases as a way to a revival of business generally.

"Steel companies are not making money," he said. "Last year, in the boom period, they earned around 5 per cent of their capital investment."

"We have agreed not to cut wages, and the prices of ore, limestone and other things that go into the manufacture of steel as well as taxes are not coming down, so the only thing we can do is to raise prices."

He said many steel products have been sold at prices more than 20 per cent under those of 1929.

PRICES FORCED DOWN

"Large consumers of steel in forcing prices down have created a serious situation for many steel producers. It is important to preserve wages and it is important also to pay dividends to stockholders, many of whom, including individuals and institutions, are dependent upon this income. The drop in steel prices has not increased the volume of buying and it is encouraging that the present prospect is for greater business."

B. F. Fairless, first vice president of the Republic steel corporation at Youngstown also believes that finer prices, as well as a recovery of operations early in 1931 are in prospect.

"The production of steel in November has dropped to an annual rate about 35 per cent under the average for the last five years," he said.

"The country's use of steel has not declined so heavily, and the correction of this wholly abnormal situation is not likely to be much longer delayed."

RECOVER KIMBERLY MAN'S CARS IN IOWA

Three Youths Sleeping in Stolen Auto are Held on Charges at Dubuque

A sedan, owned by Martin Van Zealand, Kimberly, which had been stolen from a public garage in Milwaukee on Nov. 2, was recovered last Tuesday in Dubuque, Iowa, and was returned to the owner Monday.

With the recovery of the car Dubuque police arrested two Milwaukee boys and Dubuque youth who are being held in Dubuque on a charge of committing a series of robberies and burglaries there.

The three youths, Joseph Schwartz, 20, and Edwin Hamm, 21, Milwaukee, and Martin Olson, 20, Dubuque, were arrested when they parked the stolen car on a side street in Dubuque and went to sleep. A policeman awoke them to investigate and they claimed they bought the car from Van Zealand. They knew whose car it was because the registration papers were found in a pocket. Police were just about to let the youths go when they received word that the car had been stolen. The boys then admitted that the two Milwaukee youths had broken into the garage at Milwaukee, picked Van Zealand's machine from among 55 cars and driven to Dubuque. They got Olson and Hamm committed a series of burglaries, according to police. The rear end of the sedan, when police recovered the car, contained guns and ammunition.

NEW YORK POLICE AND REDS IN NEW BATTLE

New York.—(P)—Police and Communists were convulsing today from another clash near the Pennsylvania terminal. It was the seventh encounter in the same vicinity within recent weeks.

Of 16 Communists arrested, five were held in jail and the others discharged. The riot occurred during the evening rush hour yesterday in front of a union cafeteria, in V. St.

Clashes of 150 policemen battled about 1,000 reds for fifteen minutes, swinging their night clubs and charging their horses, until the mob was dispersed.

The crowd which gathered to watch the struggle created a traffic snarl which was not untangled for several hours. Police and Communists both suffered bruises and cuts but no one was seriously injured.

The demonstration was a protest against the cafeteria's employment of union labor and against a recent injunction restraining Communists from picketing the place.

3,264 SLAIN DEER ARE TAKEN ACROSS FERRY

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—(P)—A total of 3,264 deer had been transported across the straits of Mackinac yesterday, according to a tally by state ferry officers. In addition, hunters crossing at this point took out of the north woods 21 bears, 6 wolves, 5 coyotes, 4 bobcats and 2 foxes.

About half the hunters from the lower peninsula have returned. Last year there was a total of 6,500 deer taken across the straits.

Christmas Seal Sale To Open Thanksgiving Day

The annual sale of Christmas seals will open in Appleton Thanksgiving day, with $2,500 as the goal. Letters will be mailed out Wednesday evening by the committee in charge, headed by Mrs. L. J. Marshall.

Though on the face of it the unemployment situation might seem to justify a less enthusiastic subscription to this work, it has been pointed out by officials of the Wisconsin Anti-tuberculosis association that on the contrary this depression period should serve as a challenge to greater support. Because there are apt to be empty cupboards and youngsters going to school without proper nourishment, tuberculosis will have an opening it has not had

REPORT BIG RACKET GRAFT IN NEW YORK

Claim 5 Million Collected Yearly From Incoming Freight Shipments

New York.—(P)—Investigation of complaints that racketeers reap $5,000,000 yearly from incoming land and water freight was the object of a joint meeting today of the county grand jury and a civilian committee of public safety.

Joseph P. Ryan, head of the International Longshoremen's union and a member of the committee, issued a statement saying "there is no racketeering on the piers."

Complaints of hotel and contracting rackets have been received by District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain. Frank A. K. Boland, counsel for the hotel association, wrote that "hotel managers are muting leading hotels by telling strangers they are filled and leading them to less reputable places, which pay the 'steers' sizeable fees."

Another letter alleged that three representatives of an electrical workers' union compel contractors to belong to one of their five organizations in the city under penalty of financial loss. The letter alleged that the contractors are forced to charge builders 100 per cent more for their work than in 1929.

Officials of the union denied the allegations.

DRY BUREAU MAY HAVE JOB GETTING FUND RAISE

Washington.—(P)—The prohibition bureau will face a new group of purse-snatchers when it asks for enforcement funds this winter.

"Hard boiled" is the way Chairman Shreve of the house appropriations sub-committee for the justice department, describes his group. Shreve, a Pennsylvania Republican, is a supporter of enforcement legislation but on the committee are two anti-prohibitionists, Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, and Griffin, Democrat, New York.

"We want to be fair, but," said the chairman today, "unless the prohibition bureau makes good case of its needs, it will not get the additional $2,000,000 requested."

The bureau's financial business was transferred to Shreve's committee when enforcement was moved from the treasury to the justice department.

REACH AGREEMENT ON SHAWANO DAM VALUE

Washington, D. C.—(P)—An agreement between the Federal Power commission and the Wisconsin Power and Light Co., placing the amount of the investment in the Shawano power dam project at $314,387, was announced today by Charles A. Russell, solicitor for the commission.

The agreed valuation, Russell said, eliminated $21,468 from the claims of the Wisconsin Power and Light Co. The dam site is on the Wolf river.

The new office for the postmaster will contain 200 square feet of space against 150 in the present office. The assistant postmaster's office will have 300 square feet of space compared to 178 in the present office.

In addition to this space there will be an office for the income tax collector, with 192 square feet of space. Internal revenue collector, 120 square feet; two rooms for the agricultural extension department, 159 and 250 square feet; a postal inspector's office, 400 square feet; and an office for reserve officers of the war department with 300 square feet.

Local materials are to be used in the selection of finishing woods, according to treasury architects, who have drawn the plans. Birch is to be used throughout the lobby and second floor offices, while pine is to be used in the workrooms.

Specifications of the buildings are to be prepared as promptly as possible, as working drawings have been completed. The treasury department probably will advertise for bids on the contract in February. It is estimated that actual work can start within two months after that.

Hastening the preparation of the specifications might make possible earlier advertisement of bids, but once bids are advertised the project must follow its usual course. This means advertisements must be published for a month, bids must be opened and checked, the contract awarded, and the contractor given 30 days to assemble his materials and equipment and employ his labor.

COUNCIL SETS NEW TAX RATE TOMORROW

Most of Preliminary Juggling is Completed, However

The city tax rate will not be set until Wednesday night, although practically all preliminary juggling of figures has been completed. The budget for city expenses has been boiled down to its minimum and the county levy is in, but there is still a question on the appropriations for public schools, library, parks and the vocational school.

The public schools are asking $400,000, which is $35,000 more than last year. The library is seeking $17,500, the same as last year, the proposed park budget is $19,000 and the vocational school estimate is $53,329.39, compared to $50,200 last year. After a meeting of the whole, Monday evening, it was decided to hold up final action until each of the four boards had attempted to further restrict their budgets. The boards will hold meetings today and tomorrow and Wednesday night, the council will conclude its annual feast of figures.

Any decreases in the four budgets will provide for additional payment on city bank loans, which now aggregate $220,000.

NAME PAIR TO BURN PRIMARY BALLOTS

Joseph Beyer and Minot Hucksins, Appleton, were appointed in an order filed Tuesday with John E. Hantsch, county clerk, to destroy the ballots cast in the primary election in September. The order was issued by Judge Fred V. Heilmann, who under state law, appoints two men to destroy the ballots 60 days after the election. The ballots will be burned in the furnace at the courthouse Friday. Ballots cast in the November election will be destroyed in January.

Officer William Johnson, of the Appleton police department, who recently passed the state bar examination, was admitted to the Outagamie County Bar association by Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court Monday afternoon. Officer Johnson took his attorney's oath after Abraham Sigman had made a motion before the court to admit Officer Johnson. The officer received his law training by studying nights and during spare time when he was off duty. He has been studying for seven years. He was assisted in his studies by A. C. Bosser, city attorney.

More Snow, Cold Is Due In Wisconsin

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More snow and colder was the prediction of weather forecasters today as temperatures throughout Wisconsin and upper Michigan reached the lowest stages recorded this season.

Northwest winds, sweeping over snow covered terrain, sent temperatures down to 13 above zero at Superior and 15 at Milwaukee. Wausau and Green Bay reported minimum temperatures of 16 degrees.

Storm warnings were issued for Lake Superior and the upper peninsula, where temperatures are expected to register a steady drop until late tomorrow. A general rise in temperature, accompanied by more snow, was predicted for Wisconsin tonight and tomorrow.

A "white" Thanksgiving was promised for the entire area by the Milwaukee Weather bureau.

LARGE AREA HIT

Chicago.—(P)—While one wintry storm was heading east with its snow and lower temperatures, another was stalking out of the far northwest today ready to spring on the central states.

The new disturbance that had its inception in northern Alberta yesterday was rapidly gaining momentum and had already reached northern Minnesota this morning bringing with it even colder weather than the storms of last week.

The lower tier of states meanwhile was still trying to shake off the last cold snap which held up transportation at many points and caused a rush of unemployed to charity shelters in the larger cities.

In Chicago the thermometer had gone down steadily since Monday morning until the coldest temperature of the year was recorded today. It was 16 above at 7 o'clock.

The weather bureau had little hope to offer to those looking for a let up for the Thanksgiving holiday. The prediction for the Chicago forecast area:

"Snow will occur tonight and Wednesday in the upper and middle Mississippi valley, the Great Lakes region and upper Mississippi valleys, with a cold wave in the eastern and central portion of the Dakotas, western Minnesota, and northern Iowa. Colder weather will follow on Wednesday in the eastern and southern sections."

J. R. Lloyd, government forecaster, issued a special forecast for Thanksgiving day in which he said it would be "generally fair and continued cold Thursday" in the Chicago area, including Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Missouri.

BANDIT WOUNDED AFTER BANK RAID

Overtaken by Posse After He Ransacks Institution and Flees With $400

Lincoln, Ill.—(P)—A bandit who robbed the Latham State bank this morning and attempted to lock employees and a customer of the bank in a vault was shot in a gun battle with a posse here. He was taken to the Lincoln hospital in a serious condition.

The man identified himself as Guy Worth, 55, of Storm Lake, Iowa. He told the sheriff that he had been "bumming" his way around the country.

Employees said he entered the bank this morning, and emphasizing his commands with gun, he ordered them to get out of the vault.

He hastily ransacked the place for cash and currency. After taking about $400 in currency, he ran from the building and drove away in a small car. As soon as Worth left, bank employees organized the chase.

Worth's car was overtaken. The bandit started to shoot at his pursuers. The posse returned his fire, hitting him in the face. The money was discovered. Worth told the sheriff he had served a term at Chester penitentiary 15 years ago.

WRISTON TOOK UP REINS AT COLLEGE JUST 5 YEARS AGO

Many Plans Suggested by Him at That Time Already Realized

Monday marked the fifth anniversary of the inauguration of Henry M. Wriston as president of Lawrence college. Dr. Wriston, who succeeded Dr. Samuel A. Plantz, outlined several plans in his inaugural address which he hoped to develop at Lawrence. The alumni reading circle, a plan developed with the intention of keeping alumni in touch with their school and in touch with the intellectual progress begun while they were in school, has met with remarkable success. Over 33 per cent of the Lawrence alumni have responded from 35 different states of the Union.

The Institute of Paper Chemistry, another plan outlined by Dr. Wriston in his inaugural address, has been founded and is attracting international attention. It has been endorsed by President Hoover and Dr. Julius Klein of the U. S. Department of Commerce. It is the only institution of its kind in the United States, and one of two on the continent.

The Seminar of Human Relations, composed of 10 students, six faculty members, and five officials from Kimberly-Clark, has been established as an experiment in group education and is demonstrating the common interest between the academic and industrial fields.

Dr. and Mrs. Wriston have stimulated an interest in art by the many fine exhibits which have been displayed in the art alcoves of the college library. The new plan whereby students may rent famous pictures for a small sum is the realization of another plan outlined by president Wriston in his inaugural address.

Since Dr. Wriston took office the curriculum has been revised and the entrance requirements raised, insuring a higher type of student, and the faculty has been stimulated to keep abreast with the general progress shown by the college, it is pointed out.

SNOW AND COLDER, WEATHER FORECAST

Northwest Wind Last Night Sends Mercury Sliding Down to 14 Degrees

Old Man winter rode into Appleton like a veteran Monday evening as a cold northwest wind shoved the mercury down to 14 degrees above zero and kept everyone who had no business elsewhere hugging radiators and fireplaces.

And if the weather predictions are correct it will be colder Wednesday morning, for the forecast is snow tonight and Wednesday and colder Wednesday in the northwest and west central portions of the state.

While most people thought Monday a rather cold day, the lowest temperature recorded was 23 degrees while the mercury reached 45 during the day. The gradual descent made the cold less noticeable than it would have been had there been an abrupt drop. However, the cold has been felt enough for it was only a week ago that warm breezes were still blowing.

Monday's snowfall was reported by the government meteorologist's office as much later than last year when the first snowfall was recorded on Oct. 22.

SIX MEN ACQUITTED OF DRY LAW CHARGES

Milwaukee.—(P)—Six men were acquitted of liquor conspiracy charges in federal court today after the jury had deliberated 20 minutes.

The defendants were Hugo Fishman, Roy White, Charles Wilson, Frank Pfanzelter, Lloyd Wilfert, and Andrew Kuczwara. They were arrested in July, 1929, in a raid on a brewery on Fishman's farm near Arlington, Wis.

Charges against Ray Bowen, a seventh man arrested in the raid, were dropped at the beginning of the trial.

FIRE RAZES CABIN OF FEDERAL MAIL BOAT

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—(P)—Fire started from an overheated stove burned the after-cabin of the U. S. mail boat Neecum plying between Neeshih island and here, yesterday. Mrs. Marjorie Marks and Mrs. Alexander Burns, Sault Ste. Marie, passengers, and Eugene Seaman, operator of the boat, were rescued from the small craft by the U. E. Engineering tug Noble. The coast guard cutter Vigilant towed the mail boat to the Sault.

CHICAGO STOCKS ARE FIRM AFTER WEAKNESS

Chicago.—(P)—After an irregular opening, prices on the Chicago Stock exchange today firmed up measurably, but failed to make a noteworthy advance.

Trading was sluggish, with the volume at approximately the same rate as yesterday.

National Standard sold at 27 for a gain of better than one-half point over the previous final. The company's annual report for the period ending Sept. 30 is expected to be revealed soon and will show approximately $4 a share earned on 150,000 shares of capital stock, against $5.17 a share for last year.

The directors at the next meeting are expected to maintain the present $3 annual dividend rate.

Crack Huntsmen Get Bill Of $22 For Killing Trees

Whether the Rainbow Veterans organization should pay a bill for alleged damages to trees and shrubbery, caused when a group of members of that organization went rabbit hunting near Birmamwood Sunday, is the weighty problem which was referred to a special committee at the meeting of the veterans last night at their cottage on Lake Winnebago.

It seems that five of the veterans recently boasted that they were expert rabbit hunters and they were immediately challenged to prove their claim. The five, Chauncy Greunert, Louis Wolf, Nig Steiner, Herb Gamsky and Ted Albrecht, accepted the challenge and laid plans for their invasion.

Sunday they repaired to the woods in the vicinity of Birmamwood and from there on the stories of the hunt differ. The men claim they worked in a systematic manner using Louis Wolf's rabbit dog to bring around the game. As the rabbits passed they had to undergo a barrage of fire from the five guns in the hands of the intrepid huntsmen. They brought back the limit.

At last night's meeting a letter from the owner of the property, where the hunters claim, they bagged the game, was read in which he asked $22 for damages to his trees and shrubbery. He claimed that one of the men certainly must have been a dead shot because he managed to wipe out several thickets of fine bushes which the owner had just planted. The veterans believed this must have been Ted Albrecht, because he bragged about his marksmanship.

The only thing that Nig Steiner shot was a cat. Gamsky, who had been named director of the hunting organization, told the other boys how to hunt, but he failed to bag a single rabbit himself. Such, at least, are what reports revealed.

In his letter to the Rainbow organization the owner of the property said:

"I don't know what kind of soldiers you have in your outfit but if they couldn't hit varmints any better than they can rabbits I don't know how they ever won the war."

"Now if you will send me a check for $22 for damages to my trees and bushes, it will save you plenty of time and trouble."

The question was debated for some time with the hunters defending themselves. They admitted that perhaps they might have shot a small tree or two in their excitement, but denied that they did $22 worth of damage. A special committee finally was appointed to investigate the affair.

The veterans now are wondering whether some butcher in the neighborhood of Birmamwood will soon be presenting a bill to the outfit for the rabbits.

CURB-MARKET IS QUIET AND FIRM

Trading is Slightly More Active Than Yesterday but Dullness Prevails

New York.—(P)—The curb was quiet and firm today. A few stocks, affected by special circumstances, pushed beyond the narrow price swings made by the general list, which was little changed from yesterday's action. Trading was slightly more active, but the principal characteristics of the session was dullness.

Utilities Power & Light Common moved a point higher in response to the extra dividend. American Superpower, Electric Bond & Share, United Light A, Middle West Utilities and Niagara Hudson appeared to have struck a deadlock, and the same situation held for the active oil and natural gas shares.

Goldman Sachs trading was a feature in the investment trust division, rising more than a point. The company has a controlling interest in manufacturers trust, one of the four New York banks to be merged into a billion dollar institution.

The wide moves among industrial specialties were in dips. Corroon & Reynolds A preferred divided five points to a new low and Sullivan Match encountered a similar loss. Deere Ford of Canada A Techicolor and Aviation Corp. of the Americas firmed slightly.

Call money renewed on the curb at 2 1/2 per cent.

ENDLESS RAILWAY OPENED

Opening of the Schaunstrand suspension railway near Freiburg marks an epoch in the development of ropeway lines, for it is the first endless system of transporting passengers on a large scale. Formerly the pendulum system, by which two cars moved alternately up and down, was employed. Eight cars on the new line are fastened to the endless rope and travel all the way round. Each has a capacity of 27 passengers. Outside the cars are special containers for baggage and a searchlight. The cabin contains the lighting apparatus and a telephone for communication with the engineer operating the driving wheel. The length of the ropeway is nearly 12,000 feet and the negotiated height is nearly 2,500 feet.

MOCK MONUMENT LISTED

A monumental obelisk without an inscription but with an unusual history is being listed by Lochmaben, Scotland, as one of its sights of interest. It is in the village churchyard, and was erected to denote the supposed grave of James Mounsey, a native of the district and a grandnephew of William Paterson, the founder of the Bank of England. Mounsey was physician to the Emperor Paul of Russia, and when that unfortunate ruler was assassinated in 1801 reports arose that Dr. Mounsey had a hand in the murder. To prevent his becoming a victim of popular indignation his death was reported, and a mock funeral took place in Lochmaben churchyard, the obelisk being erected over the "grave."

PRESENT FEDERAL FISCAL SITUATION REMAINS IN DOUBT

Decision to Keep Sinking Fund Really Warning of no Tax Reduction

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1930 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — (CPA)—Announcement that the president does not favor abandonment of the sinking fund of war debts, together with similar expressions from the treasury and Senator Smoot, merely means that for the present at least no effort is going to be made to anticipate what the fiscal situation of the government will be on June 30 next.

For several days there have been suggestions that the prospective deficit in government finances should be met by suspending the sinking fund payments for a year or two, inasmuch as the public debt has been retired at a rapid rate in the past ten years, decreasing at an average of about a billion dollars a year.

What the president's statement indicates is that all the surplus funds above the $250,000,000 statutory limit will be applied to current expenses. In other words, payments from foreign governments and miscellaneous sources which have hitherto been applied to debt retirement, over and above the $250,000,000 required by law, may be diverted to care for government needs in the receipts from taxation cause a shrinkage in the government balance.

SLIM HOPE FOR OLD TAX

The significance of the White House statement is that the treasury has estimated the probable receipts as well as expenditures and believes that the sinking fund provisions will not have to be altered merely to balance the budget. They would, of course, have to be changed if the administration decided to retain the 1 per cent tax cut which was enacted last year as a temporary measure. To continue this reduction would unquestionably cause a higher deficit than is now threatened. So the effect of a decision to keep the sinking fund is really to warn the country that the 1 per cent tax reduction of last year which corporations enjoyed will not be in effect next year. Indeed, it would not be surprising if the Republicans were forced to revise the whole rate structure with the idea of producing more revenue.

It does not necessarily follow, either, that higher rates of taxation will be proposed but that some of the general taxes which used to be in effect may be restored. The treasury department was opposed to the repeal of some of the general taxes on the ground that they would be least felt in times of business depression. Unquestionably the corporations which insisted upon repeal of many of the business taxes would have been better pleased if the tax burden had been more widely distributed.

So far the official statements signify that the administration is not worried over the fiscal situation but on the other hand is going to derive a considerable benefit from the publicity given last week's discussion. Certainly when congress reconvenes the effort to get larger appropriations will be met by the argument of the treasury that no funds are available for new things. The belief exists that much of the public construction should be borne by the states and not by the federal government. A paradox will develop when congress seeks to spend money to give the unemployed jobs and at the same time keep the treasury from increasing taxation. For the present the decision is to retain the sinking fund provisions and hold down appropriations.

PUBLIC UTILITY STOCKS HELD IN DISFAVOR TODAY

Fear of Political Interference Helped to Reduce Popularity

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
New York—Preliminary to a series dealing with the public utilities, an understanding of the situation existing in the industry today is essential. As far as the market for the securities of these corporations is concerned there has been a great change in the attitude of the investor. Eighteen months ago the common stocks of the electric light and power, the gas and the telephone companies sold anywhere from twenty to thirty and sometimes even fifty times earnings per share. The yield on these stocks at prevailing dividends and current market prices was much below that to be had on the highest grade of corporation bonds. Now all that is altered.

The public utilities are in nearly as much disfavor now as they were in favor at the height of their popularity. One reason for the reversal is that the speculation for the rise in 1929 was carried to an extreme. Another is the fear of political interference, meaning thereby stringent regulation and possibly public ownership. It would be a serious mistake to ignore the sentiment which works against public utility securities at this time because it is such intangible factors as well as the actual statistical data which make prices in an open market. At the same time, it would be just as serious a mistake not to give weight to the fundamental facts, one of which is that, unlike the railroads, there is constantly growing demand for the service the public utilities have to sell. Even in times of industrial depression, production of electric power does not fall off in the same proportion as does the output in other industries. Even in times of a business setback, gross earnings of these companies show only a slight falling off. In other words, the public utility field is an expanding one and that being the case there can be no permanent depreciation in the value of their securities, considering them as a whole whatever may be the temporary fluctuations in the market appraisal of that value.

Investment in utility stocks and bonds demands discrimination just as it does anywhere else, but given that discrimination it must prove profitable over the longer term despite the political handicap, if it is a handicap. In the articles which are to follow a condensed analysis of the factors will be attempted, paying due attention to the senior obligations in the capital structure.

Dr. O'Keefe's office now open.

THE DANCE HALL ORDINANCE

Roadhouses, night clubs, dance halls and similar places long operating without restraint in Outagamie county, will be brought under control through adoption of a dance hall ordinance by the county board last week. The board is to be congratulated upon the passage of this most desirable piece of legislation.

There are two general types of amusement places operating in the county. One is the dance hall that tries to do a legitimate business and has no cause for objecting to reasonable regulation. The other type, the dive in which liberty is regarded as license, deserves little consideration from decent people and the quicker they are forced out of business the better it will be for the public.

It is at this latter type that the new ordinance is aimed, particularly. These places, in which the sale of liquor is the principal business and dancing is the bait, ordinarily are not in full operation until after midnight and the order closing them at 12:30 is in the nature of a death blow. The license fee of $25 and the charge of $5 for employment of a special deputy are minor details in these places but the early closing is of serious consequence. The better places generally are quite willing to close at 12:30 and if they are properly operated their patronage is sufficient so that the cost of the license and supervision is no hardship.

But adoption of this ordinance is one thing and enforcing it is another. Some years ago the board adopted a dance hall ordinance with some of the provisions contained in the present law but it was far from effective, possibly because there was no great desire to make it effective. The new law will have the same kind of a result unless there is a determined effort made to see that it is obeyed.

If the purpose of the special dance committee consisting of three members of the county board, the sheriff and the district attorney, is to determine in specific cases whether the law should be enforced in its entirety or is to be modified, there is a grave danger that some of the effectiveness of this ordinance will be lost. There really is no reason why it ever will be necessary to make concessions to one dance hall or roadhouse operator that is not granted to all of them and no such power of discretion should be lodged in any committee or in any official. The ordinance as adopted will be published so that everyone will know its provisions and can guide himself accordingly.

An excellent start has been made in adoption of this ordinance and it is hoped that its enforcement will be honest and drastic.

NEW STYLE IN FACTORIES

The $1,500,000 windowless factory that is to be created in Fitchburg, Mass., may start a new style. Architects and engineers have been talking for years about such construction, but here is somebody actually doing it. The plan sounds repellent at first. Yet it may prove satisfactory. Working conditions are expected to be better than is possible in a building of the usual type. There will be ample ventilation. The light will probably be better than can be obtained from windows, because it can be completely controlled. Sounds and sights not wanted can be shut out.

Most people might not want these latter benefits. They want to look out of the window and see what is going on. Yet there is less and less to look at in our cities, except from the upper stories of skyscrapers. Imagine the increased efficiency that might be obtained in schoolhouses and office buildings from eliminating windows. But we shall have to get used to that idea gradually. Human curiosity and scatterbrainedness are stronger than the yearning for efficiency and concentration.

A NEW CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT

The Wisconsin legislative interim committee investigating campaign expenditures is rumored to favor an increase in the amount permitted to be spent by candidates for office. That alone will never cure the present ills of the Wisconsin act. The entire structure of our law should be rebuilt in the light of the wrongs to be prevented but always with the purpose, which must be kept clearly in the mind, of permitting free elections, which cannot occur when legitimate attempts to present political policies to the people are hampered or restricted at every turn.

For instance, our law permits a candidate for governor to personally spend $6000 and other candidates for state office $2250. The law should not permit the expenditure of such sums of money by individuals seeking public office. The amount is too large. It would be more in consonance with sound public policy to limit individual contributions,—and corporate contributions must be prohibited entirely, —to $500, or even less. The individual contribution must be limited to so modest a sum that neither the contributor nor the public may gather the idea that some one has purchased an influencing part in the success of the prevailing side.

The committee should keep in mind the desirability of prohibiting entirely the expenditure of money in our elections except through the means of a regular campaign committee which can be held to strict accountability for funds where individuals cannot. A candidate cannot be held responsible for efforts upon his behalf which involve the expenditure of money without his knowledge or acquiescence, but prohibiting such independent efforts and providing a penalty will largely prevent them, and they are in the main the most undesirable things in an election.

In revamping our corrupt practices act a limit of course must be set upon the entire amount that may be spent, but some idea of the nature of a statewide political campaign and the expenses attending legitimate efforts must be kept in mind in fixing the limit. Wisconsin is larger than England. It is larger than many other European nations. It has scores of cities, hundreds of villages, perhaps a thousand postoffices. It takes a large sum of money to get a message to each of the nearly million qualified voters in the state. It would take nearly $100,000 to print and otherwise pay for the preparation and distribution of such a message. That would be the expenditure of but ten cents per voter. Is there any reason to believe that the voters are to be corrupted at the rate of a dime a piece?

If the redrawn corrupt practices act will limit individual contributions to a relatively small amount, provide in careful detail the exact purposes for which the money can be spent, which purposes must have to do entirely with reaching the voter in a fair and open manner, leave to the regular campaign committees the conduct of their respective campaigns, prohibit the expenditure of money except through campaign committees, provide that such committees must carefully keep and audit their books, which must always be open to the public, but permit each side in a political controversy to raise a sufficiently large amount of money and spend it to carry forward its message to the voters, we will have at the same time a sensible and practical protection against corruption with a freedom of movement which is necessary in conducting a campaign. Too much restriction of the amount raised will remove the term free election from our vocabulary.

Today's Anniversary

CARNEGIE'S BIRTH
On Nov. 25, 1835 Andrew Carnegie, an American manufacturer and philanthropist, was born in Dunfermline, Fifeshire, Scotland.

At 13 he removed with his family to the United States and settled in Pittsburgh. His first job, as a weaver's assistant, netted him $1 a week. He later entered the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad and advanced until he became head of the Pittsburgh division of the road.

He joined Woodruff, the inventor of the sleeping car, in organizing a company, and thereby laid the foundation for his fortune. Subsequent investments in oil lands helped increase his means.

After the Civil war Carnegie developed various iron works at Pittsburgh. He introduced into the United States the Bessemer process of steel making in 1868, and a few years later was principal owner of several large steel plants, which were consolidated in 1899 in the Carnegie Steel Company. Two years later this company was merged into the United States Steel Corporation.

Carnegie then retired and devoted himself to philanthropic activities. He gave libraries to many towns and cities in the United States and contributed large sums to other benefactions, the total exceeding $800,000,000. He died in 1919.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's name is never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THIS READER HAS STOPPED WORRYING.

I think no one knows better than I do just how dumb "educated" laymen are about matters of physiology, hygiene, pathology and health. At the same time, I gauge lay intelligence by the letters I receive, and my estimate of the intelligence quotient of newspaper readers is higher than that of some of my advisors or critics. They often tell me that my remarks or teachings will hurt my readers because readers will not be able to understand—I am talking away over their heads. I don't think so, altho I have good reason to know that some readers are exasperated by my views. On the other hand, well, here is the way one reader takes it:

Wm. Brady, M. D.

Dear Doctor:
I am a constant reader of your articles, and I have benefited thereby, for which I feel very thankful to you.

I suffered from a run down system due to worry, but your advice about nervous troubles enlightened me to such an extent that I got rid of my nervous complex. I have since gained 35 pounds. I had gone down to 130. I gained this all in one year, and now weigh 165 pounds. I stopped worrying about my condition when I found out that there is no such thing as a nervous breakdown—something I did not know before

Yours respectfully,

So far as my conscience goes—and my conscience, I want everybody to remember, goes all the way—this one word of approval wipes out a score of complaints from people who resent the threat to rob them of their, oh, let's just call it "nerves."

Tell me, doesn't it—or rather let me tell you how it vexes me when the telephone girl says "excuse me, please." If she would only say excuse me, or excuse us, or excuse the company's service, but this trick of trying to blame the error on the instrument or the apparatus is almost as irritating as "it is hoped" in a letter.

I do not wonder at all that, at first flush, innocent victims of the "nervous" complex resent my teachings. But even at risk of that I feel that I am in a rather unique position and this carries a certain moral responsibility, and my conscience compels me to keep hammering away on this line, altho I offend twenty readers for every one I reform. I take a grain of comfort in the thought that among that twenty who turn away piqued or incensed at my teaching there may be one or two who will think it over in a calmer moment and perhaps even reconsider what I say on the subject.

The reader whose letter I quote implies that he had worried a great deal about the precarious state of his "nerves." That worry alone might suffice to keep the man in a low state of health. One might be justified or at least excused for feeling some anxiety if one believed one had an actual disease of nerves or of such idea implied in the too common "nervous breakdown" complex. Moreover, physiology teaches us that there is no such thing as "nervous energy" or "nerve power," at least nothing more tangible than might be connoted by the term "lung energy" or "skin power" or "strong ears." The normal functioning of the nerves, and indeed the brain, requires so little energy that it is scarcely worth mentioning in the daily energy output of the body.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Take Care, Little Mother, Take Care. I am an expectant mother, 24 years old, 61 inches tall, and I weigh 110 or perhaps now 112 pounds. Is it possible for me to regulate my diet so that the child will not be as large at birth, that is, without affecting the health or vitality of the child? (Mrs. L. J. G.)

Answer.—No. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for prospective mother. No instructions or advice or information unless you mention you are a prospective mother.

Hay Fever Isn't.

Is hay fever contagious? (C. M. E.)

Answer.—Why bring that up now? Has there been no frost in your neighborhood? It is not communicable. Of course a person subject to hay fever may also contract respiratory infections which are communicable.

Liquid Diet.
Recently a three day diet was suggested, that is, fruit juices, tomato juice, and buttermilk. Please give particulars, how many glasses, etc. (C. R.)

Answer.—I should not advise such a diet.

Denatured Alcohol.
We use denatured alcohol in cleaning metal surfaces in our offices, perhaps for half an hour a week. Is there any danger in this? (F. B.)

Answer.—Not if there is fair ventilation.

Get Fat Quick.
It is necessary that I gain 3 or 4 pounds in the next two weeks, in order to pass a certain physical examination. How can I best do this? (N. A.)

Answer.—Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for gaining weight. If you are much underweight and have a good up-to-date doctor, he can give you a few insulin injections and bring your weight up to the necessary level. No use going to old fogey doctors about this—they know nothing about these modern improvements. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

"LL bet," said Cappy, "those old ships have had some very wondrous trips. They must have sailed for years and years upon the ocean blue. A wondrous story would be told if each old ship could now unfold all of the things, in years gone by, that each ship has been through."

"But, let us find some other place where there are ships still in the race against the storms and winds and such. I'll bet they're right to see. This is a fishing port, I hear, and there must be big ships real near. I'd like to climb all over one. Such sport appeals to me."

"Well, well, my son. Perhaps we can. 'If you are game to walk a bit, I'll lead you to a fleet. This time of day the ships are in. If we are going, let's begin. Perhaps we'll find some fishermen, whom you'll be glad to meet."

And so, upon their way once more, they sauntered down the sandy shore. Soon Cappy cried, "Oh, look ahead. I see some big ships. Get! They're all pulled way up on the sand. The sight of them is simply grand! If we can loaf around them, my, how happy I will be."

They reached the ships and Cappy cried, "Say, fishermen, can we all ride?" "I'm sorry," said one fisherman. "We are not going out. We've had our catch of fish today, so up on shore we're going to stay. However, if you wish to, all you jads can look about."

"That's fine," replied the Travel Man. And to the ships the Tynmites ran. The sails yere all rolled up real tight and there was room to roam. The Tynmites scampered all around and interesting things they found. Said Cappy, "My, they're roomy. They would make a real nice home."

(The Tynmites meet a lace maker in the next story.)

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—It's a big moment for Johnny Weltman when his elevator bell rings three times and he finds that the summons is that of the vice president of the United States.

Johnny is that beaming, broad-shouldered son of Kansas who operates the elevator in the capital leading to the senate press gallery. But, what is more important, Johnny is a Charlie Curtis man first, last and for all time.

Although past 70, he is as agile as the youngest of them when the vice president is his passenger.

"Where to, Mr. Vice President?" is his gracious inquiry.

"To the floor, John," answers Curtis, and it's a non-stop flight to the floor. For Johnny's car is an express on such occasions.

He knew Charlie Curtis long before he attained such prominence as he now enjoys. Back in the days when the vice president was jockey, riding horses at the county fair, Johnny was one of the spectators.

INDIAN BOY

"We called him the Indian boy then," he says. "He was a little skinny youngster, but a cracking good rider. They used to tie him on his horse, for that's the way he wanted to ride."

"And never would he admit that anybody could beat him at horse-racing any more than he'll admit now anybody can beat him at Kansas politics."

Johnny can't remember when the vice president was badly beaten in a horse race. But Curtis does. He tells the story that one time he was so far behind as he galloped into the stretch an ironic spectator waved him forward and called out:

"Go on, kid. You're headed the right way. The others all went in that direction."

The kindly old elevator operator, like so many others in the capital, has a private political background of significance. He is continuously political minded—and years have done little to dim his interest in practical vote-getting maneuvers in Kansas.

GOTHAM HEADGEAR

He was a key man in Brown county when the political destiny of the vice president was in the making. As county clerk and a Curtis man he played a prominent part in that memorable Curtis-Bailey battle of long ago.

His vacation in they ear of the last Republican convention was spent at Kansas City politicking for Curtis among neighbors and friends of the corn belt delegations.

And only a few days ago he returned to the capital from Kansas where he looked the situation over prior to the elections.

Among the swarm of congressional attaches, from uniformed police guards to doorknockers and elevator men, Johnny is looked upon as an oracle on Kansas politics. One of his proudest possessions is a leather-brimmed cap that he won in the last presidential election, and which he wears on his elevator job.

"My New York hat," he calls it, as he chuckles.

Speaking of surprises, who would have guessed a couple of months ago that Bobby Jones would be big news at the height of the football season?

One of the paradoxes of the modern age is why a man on the loose thinks he can improve things by getting tight

A halfback, says the office sage, is always sure to get a rise out of the stands in the long run.

Seen and Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—The name Tiffany long has stood for jewelry in the American mind.

Now it also stands for art in the minds of those who visit the New York galleries.

For the famous jeweler, Louis Comfort Tiffany, has presented to his own art foundation his residence, Laurelton Hall, near Oyster Bay, Long Island, including its extensive art collections and 80 acres of gardens and woodland.

There painters, sculptors, jewelers, metal-workers, and decorators may study and work on the Tiffany bounty.

GENS AND ART

Tiffany is 84 years old and he lives alone, except for servants and two trained nurses. He is short and stocky and has gray hair and beard. He always wears a flower, usually some exotic kind.

Totem poles are his particular weakness. He has three on his grounds.

As some of the first examples of modern art in America, Tiffany's own painting, architectural designs and glass brought about discussion a generation ago.

FURTHER UNREST IS PREDICTED BY U. W. ECONOMIST

Causes Which Reduce Margins of Profit Must Be Corrected, He Says

Oberlin, Ohio.—(AP)—Until the universal monetary causes which reduce margins for profit much greater than they reduce prices are corrected, the world may look for further falls in prices with attendant unemployment and labor unrest, John E. Commons, famed economist of the University of Wisconsin, said here today.

The economist's views were expressed in a speech delivered at the fifth conference on the Causey Fund, "Looking Forward in Industry," at Oberlin college.

The margin of profit and not the share or the rate of profit determines whether labor is employed or unemployed, Prof. Commons said. The share of profit is about 25 per cent of the national income. The average margin of profit is about three per cent of the selling prices of commodities, he said.

Swift & Co., said the economist in explanation, had gross earnings of $425,000,000 in 1925. They expended $313,000,000 in order to obtain the gross earnings, leaving $112,000,000, or 1.3 per cent of the selling prices, as the margin of profit.

"Those who draw their conclusions for the unequal share of the national income going to profits and wages as the cause of unemployment, fall into the fallacy which has dominated socialist, communistic and trade union economics for a hundred years, and has recently been renewed by Foster and Catchings and followed by President Hoover, that the cause of unemployment is in the fact that labor does not receive a large enough share of the national product to purchase back as consumers what they have created as producers," Prof. Commons said.

The professor attacked the present policy of nationwide construction projects as an aid to unemployment. There is no difference, so far as furnishing employment is concerned, between spending and saving, he said.

"If wage-earners spend their money they give employment immediately to bakers, retailers, movie operators," Prof. Commons said. "If they save their money the savings bank or building and loan association invests it in bonds or mortgages and this gives employment to laborers in the construction of railways, factories and homes."

Prof. Commons pointed out that he was not opposed to public works for the unemployed but declared that they should be looked upon as a relief measure, not as a means of increasing the demand for commodities. A billion dollars would relieve no more than five per cent of the total unemployment, he said.

Regarding the effect of a world-wide fall in prices on the margin of profit, Prof. Commons said that a fall which averages one per cent per month in the prices of all commodities would equal a fall 33 times as great in their average margin of profit if the margin is three per cent of the selling price.

The monetary causes which reduce margins of profit greater than they reduce prices were enumerated by the speaker as "partly the fact that there is increasing scarcity of gold; partly the fact that nearly all countries have returned to a gold basis and have thus increased the demand for gold; partly because the United States, France and India have been hoarding more of the world's shortening gold supply than they need; partly the fact that the Central Banks of the world, including the Federal Reserve System, have not been able or not permitted to cooperate in order to economize the use of gold and prevent the tendency of some countries to get a larger share than they need of the world's gold supply."

"Unless this situation is corrected," the speaker said, "we may look for a further world-wide fall in prices, with short spurts of recovery when inventories are sold out, but with further sags and with unemployment, reductions in wages, increase in strikes and labor unrest. I take it the reason why this world-wide monetary cause is not appreciated in the discussions of unemployment is because attention is directed to the share for profit and not to the margin for profit."

VET CERTIFICATES PLAN GAINS FAVOR

House May Agree to Pay Off Adjusted Compensation Claims

Washington.—(AP)—Proposals to relieve unemployment by paying off adjusted compensation certificates held by World War veterans are gaining support in the house.

Chairman Johnson of the Veterans' committee, today saw "something to be said on both sides." He is making a thorough study with a view toward possible suggestions for new legislation.

Representative Patman, Democrat of Texas, is seeking a majority indorsement to force action on a bill he introduced 18 months ago, and several others in both parties have expressed interest.

Patman estimated today it would cost $3,000,000,000 to pay the veterans in full, or $2,000,000,000 if they were paid 80 per cent.

Another plan, providing for cash payment of at least 25 per cent of the value of the certificates has been advanced by Representative Cochran, Democrat, Missouri.

There is now $700,000,000 in the treasury, accumulated against retirement of the approximately 3,600,000 certificates issued to the veterans at the end of the war. "They were given $1,000 insurance policies which mature in 1945, with the right to borrow on them from the veterans' bureau."

The interest on such loans, however, is 6 per cent, a rate termed "outrageous" by Chairman Johnson.

Folders Of European Trip To Be Ready Soon

Preparations of the descriptive folders, explaining all details of the educational tour of Europe planned for summer by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, is near completion. It is expected the folders, with registration cards, will be sent to all applicants the first week in December.

The number of people desiring to make the trip now passed 900 and it is expected that within a week or ten days it will top the 1,000 mark. Mr. Meating pointed out that Outagamie teachers are to be given preference on this trip, but that as soon as 1,000 persons have made final registrations, all further registrants cannot be certain that they will be able to receive a berth on the trip.

Mr. Meating designed the four for rural school teachers and since the announcement of the plan was made he has been flooded with inquiries from all over the state from teachers who desire to make the tour to Europe at a price that is practically unheard of—$249 for a trip from Appleton back to Appleton.

The trip will last 34 days, leaving Appleton on the night of July 7. The party will go by special sleeping car trains to St. Louis, St. Paul and then to Montreal, where it will embark on the Canadian Pacific SS. Montevideo. Two days will be spent sailing down the St. Lawrence river and five more in crossing the Atlantic ocean.

Landing at Liverpool, England, the teachers will drive by bus across England through the Shakespeare country, with stops at points of interest. They will then spend five days in London, with one day devoted to a bus sightseeing trip of the city. The other four days will be free.

From London the party will cross the English channel to France and Paris. Five days will be spent in Paris, with one day devoted to a bus tour of the city and another day in an excursion to Versailles. The party will then go by train, through many of the battlefields of the World War, to Brussels where they will have another sightseeing trip. From Brussels they will go to Antwerp where they will board the steamer for the return journey.

The tour is being arranged by the Soo Line railroad; the Canadian Pacific railroad and Steamship lines and the Travel Guild, Chicago.

EMPLOYMENT STILL HOLDS UNCHANGED THROUGHOUT STATE

Three Cities Conduct Surveys to Determine Number of Unemployed

Madison.—(P)—The employment situation in Wisconsin remained unchanged during November, reports from public employment offices in ten state cities indicate.

Three cities—Green Bay, Madison and Sheboygan—are conducting surveys to determine the number of unemployed with a view to finding work for those affected by the present depression, the report shows.

Practically all of the bureaus report labor surpluses on all lines of industry with Milwaukee, Wausau, Madison and Sheboygan telling of a prevalence of part time employment in factories.

The reports of the ten bureaus follow:

Ashland—There is a surplus of workers for all lines of industry. A saw mill has discontinued operations for the season, placing 200 men out of employment.

Green Bay—The surplus of labor has remained unchanged since a month ago. A new building costing $230,000 is under construction.

Madison—Unemployment situation is about the same as a month ago. The demand of farm hands is confined to chore men for the winter months. Married men are being given preference in city employment.

Milwaukee—There is a surplus of workers for all lines of industry. Activity in building industry is of smaller volume than during the corresponding month a year ago.

Racine—Employment in many industries is below normal with a slight improvement registered in the automobile industry. Requests for Dunn was slain in the lobby of an office building he bought in Hoboken after retiring from the beer business. Two men knocked him down as he emerged from an elevator then two others turned suddenly upon him.

One of his assailants committed suicide when police, trapped him under a skylight when he fled to the top floor of a tenement. The others escaped after a gun fight with police.

One-Piece Frock

BY ANNESELLE WORTHINGTON

The growing girl looks best in a simple one-piece frock like this. The belt is removable and may be placed high or low or worn at the natural waistline as is most becoming to its little wearer.

Inverted insets at each side of the front of the dress, topped by pockets, provide the necessary fullness to the hem.

You can carry it out in any of the new simple wools. Original light green jersey trim made it strikingly smart and individual. The belt of self-fabric matched the metal buckle to the trim.

Style No. 2884 is designed for the misses of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Rust-red covert cloth with pockets and the front tab closing of the bodice of self-fabric with white pique collar and cuffs is so attractive.

Plain or patterned wool crepe, tweed mixture, rayon novelties and tweed-like notions are excellent materials for this model.

Size 8 requires 1 1/2 yards 35-inch with 1 yard 35-inch contrasting.

The Story of Sue

"YOU mean that you can understand how I married her?" Dr. Burton asked Sarah, almost as though he doubted her words.

Sarah nodded. "It isn't hard. I've been lonesome, too. And I've don't to work. I know how it is. I don't blame you. We're all human. Sometimes I think we have to suffer a little ourselves before we reach the human stage, though. No one will go to a house whose shutters are drawn and tight, because it wants to stay away from the people who have made mistakes. But if it has yellow light in the windows, how they come."

"You didn't care for this girl. But she was young and warm and alive and interested. And you were lonesome. The other boys had girls. Or homes. Or mothers. Something. You hadn't. So you let her run you in."

Of course it was your fault, too. But her's mostly. I'm not the type of girl who always blames the woman. I am sympathetic with the Magdalenes. But this was ... different."

"That's what they all say," the voice in the armchair answered her. "I'll take my medicine."

"I know it," she nodded. "But all of a sudden you found that you were married to her. And she was too young ... she had lied about your ages ... so in the first scared panic you told the truth and had it all annulled ... and she didn't want you to. So here you are. Is that true?"

He nodded. "And there isn't anything I can do for you, because you see I don't love you, and that makes all the difference in the world. I'm not looking for a Sir Galahad on a snow white charger ... I can overlook a lot ... but I just don't happen to be interested anymore."

The man stood up suddenly. "I have an operation early in the morning. Rather a dangerous one. I think I'll be moving on. I'll need some sleep to have a steady nerve. Well, so long, Sarah."

"Good night, Billie," she smiled and her eyes were soft, almost tender. She stood very quietly until his steps had died away on the stairs and she heard the outside door closing. Then she sat down in the chair where he had been sitting. The pungent fragrance of tobacco clung to it.

She was alone now. Alone again! There wasn't anyone who cared what happened to her. Of course she had friends, but no one who was vitally interested in her welfare. Ted was gone. She had sent William Burton away. Her life was turning in a cycle. She needed something to interest her, she reflected. But she was glad that there was no sharp hurt to her loneliness. Just a void.

"But lots of people live in a round of voids ... emptiness where nothing happens. And they don't seem to mind it. Maybe I can get used to it." But something stirred within her. She told herself "Anything may happen to you. Anything and everything, and there goes the telephone news."

Sarah picked up the instrument and said "hello". "Sarah? Strong enough for a movie?"

At the voice at the other end of the line Sarah felt something vital and living that had connected her with the outside world once upon a time, coming back. The voice belonged to Miles Roberts. She knew

SPORTING PACT BY LAWYERS LIBERATES MILWAUKEE WOMAN

Milwaukee—(P)—A Milwaukee woman today was free of statutory charges because Assistant District Attorney A. J. Beyer and Defense Attorney Leon Sauer shook hands on a sporting proposition.

The case of the man arrested with the woman was long and drawn out. The jury went out to deliberate.

"Look here," said Sauer to Beyer, "if the jury returns a verdict of guilty, I'll concede without trial that the woman is guilty if you'll dismiss charges against the woman in case the man is acquitted. It is a bargain."

"Right," said Beyer. "I know I've won the case."

The jury returned a verdict of acquittal. Beyer kept his word.

That it wasn't because she cared for Miles, except in a friendly fashion, but he was alive and human and she needed another human being.

"What are you doing?" he asked. "I knocked over a house of blocks and I was waiting for someone to help me build a new one," she answered.

Newspaper Women Win Wealthy Men This Year

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
New York—"Newspaper girl marries millionaire." That is news. But if the little sob sisters keep on making brilliant marriages at the rate they have been announcing this fall, it won't be long until it is just an accepted fact.

Millions—titles—brains! It is open season on all three for the ladies of the press and they are taking their pick. The little girls who have spent their days weaving romance out of realities—for a consideration—are discovering the reality of romance right in their own lives, for the mere taking of the vow, "I do." They are changing head-lines and by-lines for heart lines!

Everybody was startled and not a little delighted when that giant intellect, Henry L. Mencken, inveterate anti-feminist and sworn bachelor, marched to the altar this fall. It took a newspaper girl to get that man! Sara Hardt, formerly a Baltimore news writer, is now Mrs. Henry L. Mencken. She met Mencken through her work.

MARRIED RICHEST BACHELOR
On October 19th, America's "richest bachelor," John Nicholas Brown, of Newport, R. I., became a Benedict. The girl whom he promised to endow with all his worldly goods—reported to be from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000—was a newspaper girl, Anne S. Kinsolving. Their marriage in St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, was an outstanding social event of the autumn season.

The tale of how lovely Mary Emma Landenberger failed to get a story for her paper but found love instead is one of the season's best romances. In August her syndicate wanted a story on Lindy, Anne and Baby Lindbergh. They sent personable Mary to interview Dwight Mordecai, Jr., to see if she could prevail upon him to arrange for the interview.

Scandrett was in conference and poor little Mary had to wait three hours, only to be told he could not possibly consider it. But in saying "No," Scandrett fell madly in love with Mary. Though leaving for Morrow's Mexico home the next night, Scandrett conducted a whirlwind love campaign by long distance phone, with flowers, books, telegrams, followed by personal appearance upon his return. Early in October they were married at his country place and now she is cousin to the Lindberghs and can see them whenever she wants to!

THIS ONE WON A TITLE
Glamorous as any fairy story was the dramatic marriage this fall of a newspaper girl who became a titled

As a wedding present, Nan got a cool million from her devoted husband. The limousine, wardrobes of beautiful clothes and jewels have been additional gifts. For her millionaire husband is probably the largest independent oil operator in the country, next to Harry Sinclair. Nan kept all her good luck quiet because she was afraid she would lose her job. She has worked too hard and likes it too well to want to quit, just because she is a millionaire.

All these romances of love and luck seem a far cry from the newspaper girls of a few years ago. But who can say but that today's girl is merely reverting to type.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

THE SOUTHPAW AGAIN

Scarcely a day goes by that somebody does not ask about the left-handed child. Shall he write with his right hand?

Writing seems to be the bone of contention. Why is it so important now that there is a typewriter and all its allies ready to command? All the writing that one does with his hands is surely not worth all the trouble it causes the left-handed child.

It looks very ungainly, of course, but if a left-handed child cannot write with his right hand what are you going to do about it? Make his life miserable because of your sense of fitness, or beauty, or whatever sense the left-handed one offends?

It requires a great effort on the child's part to transfer power from one side of his brain to the other. If you have not tried to work with your left hand, you being right-handed, try it and see how it feels. After an hour of it you will be willing to stop and call it enough. Yet there are people who tie the left hand behind the child's back and force him to try to write with his right hand, when it is plain that he is left-handed. That is cruel.

Beside the suffering and inconvenience to the child there is possible danger to his language activities. It is said by those who have studied the matter with great thoroughness that it is not possible to transfer language power, and writing is associated with that power, to the opposite side of the brain to which it is located. There is but one language center. If one is left-handed it is on the right side of the brain, and if one is right-handed, as most of us are, it is on the left side. And there it must stay, ungainly or otherwise. Interference with it is likely to cause the child to stutter, to spell poorly, to read poorly, to compose poorly. Better not risk such a handicap when one can let well enough alone.

It is all right to teach the left-handed child to use his right hand for simple motor activities such as using a knife and fork and spoon, opening a door, and the like, because there are motor centers on both sides of the brain and the power can be transferred. But not always.

There are some left-handed children who have made such an effort to use their right hand at all that is not worth while. Better save their energy for other work. When such an effort reduces a child to tears day after day the waste is worse than the left-handedness which at its worst can be but an inconvenience. Sometimes it is an advantage.

Whatever you do about it try not to make the child feel himself odd or peculiar or different. Do not bring him out in front of a class and insist that he become right-handed then and there. It cannot be done and you injure the child's nervous system by such treatment. Deal gently with him, make light of his difficulty, and teach him to use both hands, right and left, as well as he can without too much effort. After all being left-handed is not a great handicap. Lots of fine people have surmounted the difficulty with ease. (Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd

HAS SUCCESS A DEADLINE?

"Dear Betty Brainerd:

I am a business woman and wish to ask you a question which has greatly disturbed me. Is 30 the deadline for women in business?

"I am a college graduate and did not walk through college with my eyes blindfolded. I graduated with honors. I am 45 years of age, but in appearance and mental attitude many years younger. I have a splendid continuous record of efficient office service and the best of references. Through no fault of my own I am compelled to seek a position. Yet I find myself over and over again suffering humiliating experience of not being allowed even to interview a prospective employer because I admit to being 45. I am given that reason and that only. I am told employers do not hire women over 30.

"My friends assure me that I not only have a pleasing personality, but am actually good-looking. I am not interested in this further than to convey the idea to you that I am not the type that a person would turn away because she was a 'frump'."

"I write to you—an intelligent, sound-thinking woman—to get your viewpoint on this, to me, unfair situation just as I would go to you and talk it over if I had the privilege of knowing you and could call you a friend."

It is difficult for me to believe the situation you present to me. Any woman who has reached the age of 40 or over should have experience that any employer should be glad to use.

At 30 or over a woman has some aim in life to keep her interested. She has ideas and tastes. She is emotionally deepened.

To me there is nothing that can be said for the employer who avers that a woman past 30 is rigid, insular, set in her ways, less adaptable than her questing younger sister.

Successful business women of 30 and more cultivate just that adaptability to their employer's manner of doing things which has made the employer himself successful.

Women of your age have the courage to look at themselves with unadorned eyes, just as they have knowledge to see where they have made a mistake. They have a steadiness and an interest in their work that makes them invaluable—qualities a younger woman might lack.

I myself would set no arbitrary deadline for the age-limit of working women. I know a woman judge of 63 whose activities and quick intelligence I would pit against any male or female of half her age.

Is there a deadline for men over 30?

Until a man is over 35 he cannot be President of these United States. Would Andrew Mellon be refused a job because he is 75—or Clarence Darrow because he is 72—or Dwight Morrow because he is 57?

Next time you look for a job conceal your age. You are justified in so doing.

My Neighbor Says...

To shorten the sleeves or hem of a raincoat use gum tissue. The tailor will do it for you.

Add a little kerosene to the water when washing a linoleum. This will loosen the dirt.

Raw carrots, sliced or grated, and served on lettuce leaves, make delicious salads.

In making cake sour milk may be used the same as sweet milk, if one-third teaspoon of soda is added to each cup of sour milk.

When making meringue for a lemon pie stir two tablespoons of boiling water into it when it is ready to put on pie, and meringue will not run.

If a drop or two of ammonia is placed on a clean cloth and cloth rubbed over eyeglasses they will shine.

Before filling the teakettle in the morning always let water run a few minutes. Water left standing in pipes during the night is unwholesome. (Copyright, 1930, by The Associated Newspapers)

EYE SHADOW ADDS BEAUTY TO YOUR EYES

BY ALICIA HART

There's a shadow of loveliness around the eyes.

Or, if there isn't, you should hurry to put one there, to take the place of the shadow that lovely, long, curling lashes would give you. Nothing helps to achieve beauty so quickly as eyes with the glamour of mystery.

The women of the Orient grew familiar with the art of eyebrow shadow long before their Western sisters.

Eye shadow never should be placed under the eyes. Leave that section of the skin free from cosmetics, including powder.

IMPART NEW CHARM

Place the shadow on the lids. With your eyebrows made up properly and the right shadow on your lids, your eyes will take on that mysterious something called charm.

If your eyes are too prominent, you will lessen their defect by using black or brown shadow. If you have dark eyes you should use black or brown shadow cream too. If you have blue or green eyes, use the dark blue shadow. Amber eyes often take on the right look with purple shadow, as do hazel eyes. But you have to experiment a little with different colors to know which is most becoming to your lids.

If your eyes are wide-set, shadow all the way across the lid. If they are narrow, place the shadow at the corners. For normally set eyes, tint only the half of the eye-lid nearest the temple and leave the part next to the nose and the inner corner of the eye untouched.

Small eyes can be made to look much larger by darkening the eye-brow and the eyelid. If you have deep-set eyes, the part of the eyelid nearest the temple alone should receive this special attention.

APPLY MASCARA LIGHTLY

If you use mascara, be very careful not to get it on too thick, or to touch the eye ball in applying it. Some women find mascara an eye strain. You can try some of the dark colored eye lash salve. It is supposed to nourish the lashes and at the same time gives them a little color. Tinting the lashes is difficult but more satisfactory than mascara, to some women.

If your eyes always seem to be "lost" in your face, are not an attractive color, or are rather small,

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"SAGITTARIUS"

If November 26th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Unless your position in life is secure on this date, it may prove to be a critical time for you. Danger lurks in your pleasures—be careful of sports. A misunderstanding may cause you secret sorrow.

You show two very different characters, one external and another internal, and this makes it very difficult for you to be understood. You are bold, reckless and daring, yet at the same time very sensitive, impressionable and reticent. You are ardent and rather petulant, but seldom bear malice. You often show irritability, which results from no apparent cause, but which in reality is the result of restraint, and is caused by your double nature coming into play at one and the same time.

Your manners are naturally scintillating, only becoming brusque or defiant in the presence of enemies or when stirred to self-defense. Your nature will be hopeful, joyous and youthful even in advanced years. Unsympathetic surroundings fret you exceedingly, and you are a friend of peace, truth and justice, and are seldom engaged in quarrels of any kind.

Children born on this November 26th will have venturesome, cheerful natures, and quick mentalities. They will have hasty tempers, but will be very kind hearted and generous. They will be fond of the flesh pots and rather too-amusement-loving for their own good. They will make many friends.

$5,000 VOTED FOR COURTHOUSE GROUP TO FINANCE WORK

Report on Available Sites to be Presented at January Session

Neenah—Among last minute acts of the Winnebago-co board last week, was a resolution appropriating $5,000 for the special courthouse building committee, introduced by E. Bouchette, committee chairman. The committee is to submit complete information in reference to available sites before the January board session, and the resolution set forth that it may be necessary for the committee to expend some money. The money is to be expended on order of Supervisor Bouchette, committee chairman, and is to come from the special building fund.

On motion of Henry Schultz, the sum of $40,000 was appropriated for aid to dependent children. The board made final decision to pay Sheriff Nelson 30 cents a meal for prisoners' board, in accord with last year's contract.

OFFICERS REPORT
The county's four motorcycle officers made reports of fines and arrests for the period from April 1 to Nov. 13, during which time they were responsible for collection of $3,811.26 in fines, Irving Stip of Neenah reported the largest number of arrests, 52, and $2,185.55 in fines. E. C. Abell reported 35 arrests and $372.22 in fines. J. G. Holtz, 17 arrests and $569.98 in fines; Carl Kundinger, six arrests and $174.21 in fines. The board accepted the report and while the matter was under consideration and inquiry was made of the officers whether they would favor a 45 mile speed limit to which Officer Abell, speaking for the men, declared a 50-mile speed limit would be more reasonable. The report showed 20 arrests of intoxicated drivers during the season, Stip having 12 arrests; Abell, five; Holtz, two and Kundinger, one.

Decision also was made that the four officers will patrol the roads during January, February and March, working half time on an alternating arrangement.

Appointment of county data supervisors was held over until the January session and a resolution enacted providing that the present supervisors remain in office until that time.

DEPOSITORIES NAMED
The county depositories were named at the closing session, including all the banks of the county. They are First National, City National, Security, New American, and Paine Thrift Banks of Oshkosh; First National, National Manufacturers and Neenah State Banks of Neenah; First National and Bank of Menasha, of Menasha Farmers' State Bank of Larsen; Farmers' Bank of Omro and Peoples' Bank of Oconto; Union Bank of Winnebago, and Peoples' State Bank of Picketts. The banks agree to pay Winnebago-co interest at the rate of 2 per cent on all funds of the county, said interest to be paid on daily balances computed at the end of each calendar month and without charge for exchange for any drafts of collection charges on checks for the county. First National bank of Oshkosh has been designated as the "working" bank of the county. Funds of the county are to be distributed among the banks in proportion to the capital, surplus and undivided profits of each.

Proper bond is required from each bank, the amount to be determined by the amount to be deposited in each bank, not less than its maximum deposit, the aggregate amount of which shall not be less than $800,000.

Danke Company Brings Action Against C. F. Martin In Circuit Court

Neenah—Trial of a case in which the George M. Danke company of Neenah seeks to prevent Charles F. Martin and his wife from operating a cheese factory was begun Monday in Circuit court.

Testimony was taken last spring in a suit against Mr. Martin only, but Frank E. Keefe, attorney for the Danke concern, obtained the court's permission to make Mrs. Martin a party defendant, when it appeared from the testimony that she was active in management of the plant.

It was stipulated Monday that testimony taken last spring may be considered by Judge Beglinger in making his decision. Taking of additional testimony may occupy several days.

The suit involves a claim on the part of the plaintiff that the defendant violated an agreement by entering into competitive business after selling the plaintiff the Maple Leaf Cheese factory in town of Vinland.

The sale was made for the sum of $18,000, and it is alleged Martin agreed not to go into business in the area of the factory sold. Bandit King In Mexico At End Of Trail was started back to Cuernavaca to stand trial and face almost certain execution. At Tres Marias, not far across the Morelos state line he met death at the hands of his captors in a manner frequent for Mexican bandit leaders, "shot and killed while attempting to escape." None of the details was divulged.

"El Maestro" earned his nickname in 17 years roaming about southern Mexico. In 1913, little more than a youth, he joined the agrarian army of General Emiliano Zapata, who once held up the treasury in Mexico City, and in time he became a general himself, when changing politics in Mexico gave Zapatas exploits the aspect of respectability. Navarro left the city for the open spaces to take up a leadership of his own.

He was seen frequently thereafter, a smiling sardonic figure, in felt hat and long, pronounced silver Spanish spurs. He was scrupulously polite to victims; few of whom made the mistake of crossing him when he would back them out of automobiles or down off their horses to strip them of their valuables. He earned a considerable reputation for ability to extricate himself from any dilemma, and frequently narrowly escaped capture.

Some time before Ambassador Morrow left Mexico to attend the London naval conference Navarros men seized a village through which the ambassador would have to return enroute from Cuernavaca, where he had a country home, to the capital. Shortly before his automobile reached the village federal troops guarding the highway succeeded in driving the bandits out and clearing the road.

For a while after this the activity along the highway ceased but when it picked up again a few weeks ago the government determined to suppress it at all costs. Navarros alleged companion of many exploits, Maximiliano Viguera, was captured and executed two years ago.

TELEVISION WILL ENTER INTO ULTRA HIGH FREQUENCIES

Milwaukee Journal Station Seeks Permit to Conduct Tests

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington, (CPA)—Televison will venture into radio's no man's land to learn whether those ultra high frequencies are adapted for the transmission through space of moving pictures.

With the five short wave channels set aside for experimental visual broadcasting already congested by the operations of a score of visual broadcasting stations, it is a virtual certainty that the federal radio commission will permit such experimentation beyond the 23,000 kilocycle radio outpost. The commission now has before it the recommendation of Elmer W. Pratt, one of its examiners, that station WTMJ, at Milwaukee, be permitted to explore the ultra high frequencies for television. Pratt claims a thousand kilocycles, wide, or 100 times the width covered by the broadcast channel, is asked by the Milwaukee station for its visual broadcasting experiments. It wants to design the transmitter and receiving set for use in these experiments since none are available now.

WOULD GRANT IT
In a report to the commission, Mr. Pratt recommended the granting of the WTMJ application. The channel 43,000 to 44,000 kilocycles is sought with 500 watts power. With this tremendous sweep of etheral space, beyond the reach of other experimenters, it is hoped that full size images will be transmitted, as contrasted to the rather skimpy characters now sent out on the permanent channels of but 100 kilocycles in width.

Now television experimentation is permitted on five channels in the continental short wave spectrum, ranging from 1,500 to 6,000 kilocycles. One of these channels is shared with Canada. The commission has called a conference of all licensed television experimenters for Dec. 3, at which the status of television will be appraised and the various problems of the visual art, considered. At that conference the question of utilization of the ultra high frequencies for experimentation of this character will be discussed. John V. L. Hogan, eminent consulting engineer, has been engaged to supervise the WTMJ television experiments.

He told the commission it would be very desirable to determine how useful the very high frequencies will be for television at the earliest possible date. His reasons were that on the basis of present indications bands considerably wider than 100 kilocycles will be needed for satisfactory picture definition, that these bands are only available in the ultra high frequencies and that the information will be of great value in the development of television apparatus.

An elaborate plan for the experiments has been worked out by station WTMJ. Owned by the Milwaukee Journal, the station has 300 correspondents and 8

LEVY TAX TO HELP PAY EXPENSES OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Forest Junction Raises Money on Petition of Firemen Under State Law

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction — For the first time in many years, the local fire department, organized as the Forest Junction Hook and Ladder company, will be the beneficiary of a tax levied in this city. The current town of Brillion roll, which is being raised on the properties in the unincorporated village of Forest Junction in consequence of a petition under Sec. 213.09 of the Wisconsin statutes, filed in the town clerk's office here, which asks for a payment of $150.

Until the acquisition of a community fire-fighting truck two years ago, the local fire department was virtually self-sustaining. The maintenance of the truck, which necessitates having a driver and janitor service, is given as the principal reason for the requested aid at this time. The department's chief sources of income are from membership dues and fines, an annual 2 per cent premium from the state commissioner of insurance, and occasional payments for services at fires. The money for the purchase of the fire truck two years ago was raised by popular subscription.

Among business disposed of was the re-appraisal of church properties, and the election of Robert Haese as lay delegate to the annual session of the Wisconsin conference at Eau Claire in May, 1931.

QUICK ASSETS, CASH RESERVES GROW IN BANKS

Money is Held in Few Institutions, However, Than Formerly

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Cash reserves and quick assets are higher for the banks of the country in general than they have been in years. That is the answer level-headed financiers give when questioned as to the effect that the closing of some banks in the midwest, south and southwest will have on the position of companies and individuals throughout the country.

There can be no question of the soundness of the country-wide financial structure or even of main units of the territories directly affected.

Bankers make it plain, however, that while there is probably more money in the banks of the nation than ever before, it is not in fewer banks.

The expansion in the number of banks has been large. In fact, it has almost paralleled the expansion or over-expansion of production in some of the agricultural and industrial fields which now are feeling the effects of depression.

Many bankers have not hesitated to say that there are more banks than there is profitable business for. This attitude was expressed even before the latest increase in numbers announced by a former comptroller of the currency, who declared there were one-third more banks in existence than were warranted.

Financiers say there are, good banking practices and bad practices, just as there are good and bad merchandising practices. Bad banking policies cannot survive even in times of extreme prosperity, they say, and point to strings of failures which have taken place in periods of extraordinary business expansion.

The situation of some banks at the moment is attributed to a combination of bad banking, hard times and frozen assets. One banker here spoke feelingly on the subject of frozen assets. He likened them to meat in cold storage. He pointed out that while freezing did not harm the quality of the meat, even if it made it difficult to cook at a moment's notice, a piece of tainted meat, even if preserved by freezing, was valueless when thawed out.

He differentiated sharply between good and bad assets, even though both were in cold storage. The banks of the country have had a year to clean house and revise the positions and thaw their frozen assets. Most of them have taken advantage of this and are in a stronger position than ever before. Moreover, the federal reserve system was specially organized and empowered to come to the aid of member banks in distress.

MINIATURE RADIO SET MAKERS PILE UP LARGE PROFITS

Majority of Manufacturers Were Unknown in Field Six Months Ago

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Manufacturers of midsize radio sets are piling up profits at a spectacular rate at the present time. This is conclusively shown by the enormous increase in the number of firms producing such sets.

There are now 44 independent manufacturers in this field, 35 of whom were unknown in radio manufacturing six months ago. At a conservative estimate, 600,000 midsize sets have been sold this year. The idea originated on the Pacific slope last summer and spread east with remarkably velocity.

How long the craze for midsize sets will last is a question. The midsize set manufacturers declare they are here to stay and that the demand will continue to grow as the public becomes more familiar with the product. Their war cry is, "a radio for every room". They say that the cost of small sets is such that a family can well afford to have three or four in the house instead of one large, ornate, expensive set. They add that in the modern type of dwelling and apartment space is at a premium and that the small sets are not menaced by this factor.

TWO VIEWS PREVAIL

On the other hand, a few of the old line radio manufacturers who have gone into midsize set production hold that the set's popularity is a craze of the moment and will not last. They say that when the new manufacturers are all planned down to the royalty basis under which eventually they must operate, if they continue to use the registered radio patents, the profit will be gone out of the business.

Considerable pessimism exists at present with regard to foreign sales of American radio sets. A few companies are establishing branch factories in Europe but in nearly every instance the plants financed by American producers are guaranteed against loss by European interests. The sale of used sets abroad also is regarded pessimistically, for by the time instruments are put into condition and distribution charges paid, little chance for profit remains.

The head of one of the large American concerns declares that if this same effort were put into sales promotion in the United States it would yield far more sales and profits than in the foreign field. This man contends there is no such thing as a saturation problem in the United States. He says that just as a man continues to buy a suit of clothes, so he will continue to buy radio sets whether they are actually worn out or not. Style and appearance will have much to do with maintaining this trend, he asserts.

It is quite evident, according to reports received by government agencies here, that the radio industry will not sell more than about 2,250,000 sets this year. Last year, despite the slump in the last quarter, 4,000,000 sets were sold and the industry then expected to do fully as well in 1930. The sale of traded-in sets has also slumped. However, the losses there have been counterbalanced to a very considerable extent by the recovery of parts which could be re-used in the manufacture of new sets. Tubes can be annealed and being rejuvenated. The method of doing this is held secret.

be completed at the earliest possible date, so as to realize returns on the investment. There can be no better time than the present, when business is at a low ebb, to proceed with this work and thereby stimulate industry and find employment for idle men."

Congressman Nolan said if the money were made available, there would be no reason why the entire inland waterway system could not be completed in five years.

He also served congregations at Brillion and Reedsville. He turned to Germany for a continuance of his medical studies in 1880, remaining for a year. Returning, he located at Wausau, where today a stone church and school built under his direction and with his aid, still stand.

To the northwoods of Shawano-co Dr. Schneider was sent in 1887. Here he founded Wittenberg, naming it for the city of the same name in his fatherland, and the fireplace of Martin Luther.

SERVES COUNTRYSIDE

Here he acted as superintendent of an orphan's home and served the entire countryside as pastor and physician. He learned the patois of various Indian tribes, so that he might be of assistance spiritually and physically to both red men and white. He preached many a sermon in the lumber camps, his congregation the rough men of the woods. He aided in the births of children whom he later married, and he traveled miles through virgin forest trails to fight contagions. His work carried him to the small settlements which now are cities bear the names of Antigo, Shawano, and Wausau. His parish look in the territory surrounding Hunting, Whitcomb, Germania, Splitrock, Tigerton, Birmannwood, Anawa, Elmhurst, Norrie, Kelly, Ingersoll, Ingersoll Mills, Riverside, Regina, Bowler and Mattoon.

During the long years of his work he acted as court and judge in many backwoods disputes, both among whites and Indians. In 1891 he resigned as pastor, choosing to keep to the role of physician, and with this idea in mind went to Chicago for a continuance of medical study. For the educational advantages of his children the family moved to New London in 1905. Dr. Schneider has long been identified with the Emanuel Lutheran church of this city.

The funeral will be held at 10:30 Wednesday morning, followed by a service at Emanuel Lutheran church. Burial will be in Wittenberg, near the graves of a son and daughter. Surviving are the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Francis Shoemaker; and a grandson, Warren Shoemaker of this city. Two sisters and a brother live in Germany.

Sheboygan—(CP)—The county board today planned to forward to the legislature a resolution opposing the general property tax. The board said 87 per cent of revenue in 1933 was derived by such a tax, indicating an uneven distribution of taxes.

STOCK INCREASE SHOWS CARRIERS IN BETTER LIGHT

Advance for 15 Representative Issues Averages 10 Points

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—A ten-point average advance in 15 representative railroad stocks from the low level of the month, with most of this taking place during last week, is the first encouraging sign that has come into the credit situation of the carriers since the public began to discriminate against them on the basis of poor earnings and an unpromising outlook owing to increased competition with other transportation agencies.

In this advance such individual gains have been made as 16 points in Atchafalaya, 12 in Atlantic Coast Line and Baltimore & Ohio, 6 in Chesapeake & Ohio, 16 in Delaware & Hudson, 8 in Lackawanna, 7 in Erie, 5 in Great Northern, 13 in Lehigh Valley, 12 in New York Central, 8 in Pennsylvania and Reading, 11 in Southern Pacific, 20 in Union Pacific, and 6 points in Wabash common.

The swiftness and size of the advance led to some profit taking Saturday and a loss of a small part of the recent gains.

There are a number of new influences that have effected the change in sentiment toward rail stocks. Among them has been the realization that this group was selling on the highest income basis in years, with stocks whose dividends appear to be assured for a considerable period quoted from a 6 to 9 1/2 per cent return. Another is the development of a new attitude on the part of railroad managements toward meeting unfair rate legislation and competition, rather than submitting to both as has been the practice of the past.

EXPECT MERGER PLAN

More concrete and immediate influences are those having to do with the conferences of the eastern railroad executives, which are expected to produce a plan of consolidation in the trunk line territory agreeable to the four leading eastern lines and also to the interstate commerce commission.

Still another is the application which western roads expect to make to the interstate commerce commission for a horizontal increase in their freight rates. It is believed there is a fair chance that this will meet with sympathetic attention from the commission, which has already noted in an official way the decline in the earnings on the property investment of many of the roads in the western territory.

Child Health Conference "Big Affair" In Capital

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—The White House Conference on Child Health and Child Welfare, which opened Wednesday, was quite the "biggest" affair of last week in the National Capital, both in attendance, with more than 2,000 delegates, and in importance. It had a social aspect, too, in the numerous teas and both formal and informal "get together" of delegates and their friends in Washington.

President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin and Doc Dorothy Reed Mendelhall were among the many Wisconsin people in attendance.

Wednesday night, President Hoover addressed an audience of about 3,000 in Constitution Hall on the problems confronting the conference. As usual the Lindberghs were the center of attention. After his parents' attendance at this three-day conference, young Charles August, Jr., should be a model baby.

The Women's Guild of the American University, of which Mrs. Peter M. Anderson, formerly of Augusta, Wis., is president, is sponsoring a musical on November 24. The artists will be Charlotte Klein, organist, and Miss Schoenthal, soprano. The affair will take place at the lovely W. S. Corby estate here.

The estate, which consists of a great English-type home set on beautiful lands with smooth, green lawns, and an enchanting sunken garden, is just over the boundary line of the District of Columbia and is officially in Chevy Chase, Maryland. It fronts on Chevy Chase Circle, which is half District and half Maryland property.

Rep. and Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine are expected to arrive in the National Capital on Thanksgiving day. As usual, they will make their home, while in Washington, at the Washington hotel.

Rep. and Mrs. John M. Nelson of Madison have been back in the city for about a week. Miss Helen Stenard, Rep. Nelson's niece, returned with them.

Miss Grace Nelson, who last year acted as secretary in her father's office, is now in New York City, completing a course in interior decorating. She is already being sadly missed.

J. W. Crabtree, formerly of River Falls, Wis., and now secretary of the National Education Association, was a guest at luncheon at the Cosmos club given by Dr. C. R. Mann, director of the American Council on Education. Dr. John H. MacCracken, new associate director of the council, was guest of honor. A group of very distinguished educators, including the presidents of Georgetown University and George Washington University, also attended the luncheon.

MACARTHUR PROMOTED

Major General Douglas MacArthur became General MacArthur Friday, and Chief of Staff as well. He joined the brilliant but short parade of full generals in the nation's history, Washington, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Pershing, March, and Bliss. A recent act of congress makes the chief of staff a full general temporarily so that he may be on equal footing with army chiefs of other nations, and so the post taken over by the young MacArthur, who is so often called the D'Artagnan of the Army, has an added dignity and distinction.

General MacArthur will move into his quarters at Fort Myer about Nov. 24. They are now being remodeled, repapered and almost entirely done over. His mother, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur will accompany him and act as chateleine of his household.

General MacArthur was appointed to West Point from Wisconsin and graduated as honor man of his class. His father, General Arthur MacArthur, lived in Milwaukee from the time of his retirement from the army until his death. Mrs. MacArthur has been living in Washington for some time with another son, Capt. Arthur MacArthur, Jr., and his wife and son, Arthur MacArthur, third.

General MacArthur came from Manila to San Francisco, and on his way here took a "swing around the circle" inspecting various army corps areas, particularly in Omaha and at Chicago.

Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, formerly of Madison, was one of the members of the National Woman's Country club attending the semi-monthly musical meeting of the club Friday. The artists were Miss Evangeline Frakson, pianist, and Carl Jaspian, violinist.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harris of Janesville, Wis., motored to Washington last week. While here they stayed at the Wardman Park hotel.

CAPITALS EXCHANGE

From Paris! And to Paris! Washington exchanged last week.

Mrs. Robert R. Dickey, Jr., of Pau, France, came to Washington Thursday on her way to visit her mother, Mrs. George Barnett, formerly of Boscobel and widow of General Barnett.

Mrs. Henry Suydam, another daughter of Mrs. Barnett, Basil Gordon, son of Mrs. Barnett, and Mrs. Dickey all spent the weekend at their mother's home at Wakefield, Va.

Mrs. Dickey plans to spend some time with her sister, Mrs. Suydam, in Washington before returning to France.

And reserving things—Miss Janet Esch, formerly of Spar-ta and niece of former Interstate Commerce Commissioner John J. Esch of La Crosse, is now in Paris, on the first part of her visit to France with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frazer.

A young actor quite famous, whose emotions inflame us, Had tea at a studio school.

You really can't blame us
Though we know it's infamous
To prefer him to studies and rule.
Alexander Kirkland, a very famous young actor indeed, was guest of honor at a tea at the King-Smith Studio School of which Miss Frances Burgess of La Crosse is a student.

Mr. Kirkland appeared in the difficult leading role of "Marseilles," new play translated from the French, in Washington last week. He is well known in the Capital, not only through appearances here with the Theatre Guild in its memorable, "Wings over Europe," and with Nazimova in "A Month in the Country," but through his previous association with the Ram's Head Players of blessed memory.

This little group, which has since died, made quite a name for itself in its choice of difficult, rare, and artistic plays, its unusually beautiful settings, and its excellent performances in the then new little theatre of the Wardman Park Hotel. Kirkland was almost too young then to play even juveniles.

This year, the Columbia Players, a well known amateur dramatic group of the capital, will present four plays in this same little theatre, A. E. Dubber, formerly of the University of Wisconsin and Madison, will be one of the actors treading the boards.

OFFER CHURCH PAGEANT

An interesting church pageant, depicting the history of the Foundry Methodist Church of Washington since its creation in 1814, was presented on November 14, with Reverend E. L. Ford, formerly of Racine and now director of the Church school of this church, aiding in the direction and taking part.

During the war of 1812, Henry Foxhall of Washington owned a foundry where cannon and cannon balls were being hurriedly manufactured for the nation. When the British seized the capital they planned to burn and destroy the foundry. Foxhall, knew of their plans. On the day chosen for the fire, a great thunderstorm came up and prevented the setting of the fire, and before another opportunity arose, the British were driven from the city.

Out of gratitude, Foxhall presented the land for the original church. Now a new church has been completed and formally opened and improvements have been made in the church school building, including the installation of an auditorium and stage.

Another church project of some interest to Wisconsin through the membership of Dr. Delos O. Kinsman, formerly of Appleton, on the building committee, is the new Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church which will be built near American University. The site of the old church, which was built by nation-wide subscriptions and which Presidents Grant and McKinley attended, has been sold to the Federal government.

Mrs. Delos O. Kinsman, formerly of Appleton, entertained at tea Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Ralph Pover Brown, who is leaving the city next Tuesday for her new home in Cleveland.

Assisting Mrs. Kinsman were Mrs. Arthur Seitz, Mrs. Max J. Grevitt and Mrs. Wesley M. Grevitt.

Serving tea at the beautifully decorated rose and green tables, were

IMMELL REVIEWS WORK IN TALK OVER RADIO

Milwaukee—(CP)—The adjutant general's office does more than maintain the Wisconsin National Guard, Ralph Immell, the adjutant general, said in a radio address over WTMJ here last night.

"The adjutant general now not only administers the affairs of the national guard but also operates and maintains the Grand Army Home for Veterans," Gen. Immell said. "He is the administrative head of the state rehabilitation board and administrators the state laws providing for the hospitalization, medical care and treatment of veterans of the World war."

"The disbursing of cash and educational bonuses for world war veterans and the securing of pensions for veterans of earlier wars are duties and responsibilities of the department. The adjutant general is also the custodian of all state military records."

Gen. Immell's talk was sponsored by the Wisconsin League of Women Voters and station WTMJ.

Mrs. Lucius C. Clark, Mrs. George B. Woods, Mrs. Homes P. Dawson and Mrs. Christopher B. Garnett.

ATTENTION! Knights of Columbus Lecture at Columbia Hall postponed, due to sudden illness of Peter Collins.

Notre Dame-Army Game May Set Attendance Mark

GAME IS FEATURE GRID ATTRACTION OF THE WEEKEND

West Virginia and Oregon Clash in Shriner's Benefit Thursday

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO—(AP)—One of the oldest and most interesting intersectional gridiron rivalries—Notre Dame and the Army—will be renewed on Soldier Field Saturday, probably before the biggest attendance of the season.

At the rate tickets are going, there are anticipations of a crowd of between 110,000 and 120,000 which would rank second only to the record attendance of 123,000 established last season when the Irish defeated Southern California, 13 to 12, in the same stadium.

The Army's fine record in the east, marred only by a draw with Yale, Notre Dame will be a good sized favorite over the Cadets. Today's quotation was 5 to 1 on the Irish, with no points offered. The Army had another easy Saturday last week in defeating Urisn, while Notre Dame's regulars put in their most strenuous afternoon of the season in overcoming Northwestern, but this section of the country at least, will string along with Rockne's rugged riders.

RIVALS 18 YEARS

The rivalry has endured, with only one interruption for 18 years, and has been regarded by Notre Dame as the high spot of its schedule. When the Army and Navy had their falling-out, the contest assumed a similar importance at West Point, and regardless of the caliber of the teams, the attraction always is a hot one.

With Northwestern out of the way, Coach Rockne has ordered a two-day rest for his regulars, no serious work being scheduled until tomorrow. A pair of important goals, Bert Metzger and Marty Brill, came out of the Wilkes contest well battered, but are expected to be ready to start against the Army. Both played through Saturday's game wrapped up in adhesive tape.

Rockne does not plan to work his squad hard this week, but will save as much as possible for Notre Dame's final game of that wicked schedule, against Southern California a week hence.

SHRINER BENEFIT

The Oregon State squad, which will meet West Virginia in the Shriner's benefit for Chicago's crippled children, Thanksgiving day, was due today, accompanied by a 60 piece band, and a home cheering section. The mountaineers will reach Chicago tomorrow in time to work out in the afternoon.

The Oregon State-West Virginia game is listed as the main attraction of the program in Soldier Field, but the contest between Notre Dame stars of yesterday, and former Northwestern aces, has aroused much interest. The latter contest will start at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, and the collegiate game will follow immediately so that the 60,000 or more spectators may spend the rest of the day at the dining table.

Once More!

SIXTH WARD GRIDDERS

BEAT GALLOPING GHOSTS

The Sixth ward Tigers defeated the Galloping Ghosts from the Fifth ward in a recent football game, 7 and 0. A pass from Rehfeldt to Tuhn over the goal resulted in the touchdown. The extra point was made on a plunge. The team recently has been coached by Larry Witzke former star griddler at the Indiana State Teachers college at Terre Haute, Ind.

The team consists of Huhn end, Drews tackle, Calmes guard, Dupont tackle, Burke guard, Stroop tackle, Neiff end, Krause quarter, Manier and Sander at halves and Rehfeldt at full.

"STRETCH" MURPHY TO PLAY WITH PRO FIVE

Chicago—(AP)—Charles "Stretch" Murphy, one of the greatest of Big Ten basketball stars while at Purdue, will start his first full professional season tonight with the Chicago Bruins against the champion Cleveland Rosenblums.

Murphy, whose six feet, seven inches were used at center at Purdue, has been shifted to forward since the Bruins acquired Pat Herlihy, veteran pivotman.

LOUGHRAN TO SHOW TWICE IN CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion of the world, has signed for two fights in the Chicago Stadium. The Philadelphia restaurateur agreed to meet the winner of the Young Stribling-Tuffy Griffiths bout Dec. 12, probably early in January and signed up to fight an opponent to be selected by the Stadium, later.

JOE SAVOLDI TO PLAY HALFBACK FOR BEARS

Chicago—(AP)—Jumping Joe Savoldi, late fullback of Notre Dame, will be a halfback for the Chicago Bears when he makes his professional debut Thursday against the Chicago Cardinals.

Coach Ralph Jones moved the Italian to half as a running mate for Rod Grange, leaving Bronko Nagurski at fullback.

Sound the "K" when you say "Knute Rockne." Don't say "Newt." In Norwegian the "K" is sounded.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

BILL ROPE's successor at Princeton, Al Wittmer, has been line coach of the Tigers for three years....he has a four-year contract....Ted Coy says that isn't a backfield at Notre Dame this year....Brill, Carideo, Mullins, Schwartz and the others he calls "horvitz boys" because of their remarkable timing, precision and rhythm....The unemployment situation wasn't so bad in Chicago that Tom Jones, colored boy who acted as sparring mate for King Levinsky, was enamored of that sort of toil....at $10 a day....Jones asked for $25 a day and was shown the portals....of course, lots of people are crazy about that kind of work, if you get what I mean....Arnie Horwicz's father 40 years ago came to America from Russia, got a job as a tanner in Chicago and is now owner of a large leather factory.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

EW football coaches can compare with Bob Zuppke of the University of Illinois as story tellers. One of the Illinois coach's favorite yarns illustrates his abhorrence of using substitutes.

"I told the men going to the game there would be no substitutions," Zuppke said. "I told them unless one of the players was killed he would play the entire game."

"I was in the game," I noticed a half back in distress and sent in a substitute. The substitute ran in, looked at the injured player and galloped off again.

"What's the matter?" I asked in surprise. "Why didn't you stay in there?"

"He's still breathing, coach," was the reply.

One more reason why we don't pick all conference football teams.

Oshkosh Northwestern picks one and places Getschow, Appleton, as first string center. In the story that accompanies the choice it tells how Getschow played a whale of a game against Oshkosh smashing through on almost every play and getting many tackles.

And now it develops that Getschow played but a few minutes in the game, Bowers playing most of the

C. M. "NIBS" PRICE QUILTS AT CALIFORNIA

Berkeley, Cal.—(AP)—As a climax to a football season which brought four conference defeats, C. M. "Nibs" Price has resigned as coach at the University of California.

His resignation which applies also to his post as basketball coach was accepted last night by the student executive committee, whose action is final.

The committee, however, urged the athletic council to retain Price as basketball mentor. He has been basketball coach for five years and head football coach for four.

The executive committee also reinstated Arthur Arlett as editor of the Daily Californian student publication. The militant editor was removed last Wednesday night by the committee for his editorials and implying players were subsidized at the University of Southern California, whose 74 to 0 victory over California two weeks ago started the Furor. Stanford routed California 41 to 0 Saturday.

SIXTH WARD GRIDDERS BEAT GALLOPING GHOSTS

The Sixth ward Tigers defeated the Galloping Ghosts from the Fifth ward in a recent football game, 7 and 0. A pass from Rehfeldt to Tuhn over the goal resulted in the touchdown. The extra point was made on a plunge. The team recently has been coached by Larry Witzke former star griddler at the Indiana State Teachers college at Terre Haute, Ind.

The team consists of Huhn end, Drews tackle, Calmes guard, Dupont tackle, Burke guard, Stroop tackle, Neiff end, Krause quarter, Manier and Sander at halves and Rehfeldt at full.

"STRETCH" MURPHY TO PLAY WITH PRO FIVE

Chicago—(AP)—Charles "Stretch" Murphy, one of the greatest of Big Ten basketball stars while at Purdue, will start his first full professional season tonight with the Chicago Bruins against the champion Cleveland Rosenblums.

Murphy, whose six feet, seven inches were used at center at Purdue, has been shifted to forward since the Bruins acquired Pat Herlihy, veteran pivotman.

LOUGHRAN TO SHOW TWICE IN CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion of the world, has signed for two fights in the Chicago Stadium. The Philadelphia restaurateur agreed to meet the winner of the Young Stribling-Tuffy Griffiths bout Dec. 12, probably early in January and signed up to fight an opponent to be selected by the Stadium, later.

JOE SAVOLDI TO PLAY HALFBACK FOR BEARS

Chicago—(AP)—Jumping Joe Savoldi, late fullback of Notre Dame, will be a halfback for the Chicago Bears when he makes his professional debut Thursday against the Chicago Cardinals.

Coach Ralph Jones moved the Italian to half as a running mate for Rod Grange, leaving Bronko Nagurski at fullback.

Sound the "K" when you say "Knute Rockne." Don't say "Newt." In Norwegian the "K" is sounded.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

BILL ROPE's successor at Princeton, Al Wittmer, has been line coach of the Tigers for three years....he has a four-year contract....Ted Coy says that isn't a backfield at Notre Dame this year....Brill, Carideo, Mullins, Schwartz and the others he calls "horvitz boys" because of their remarkable timing, precision and rhythm....The unemployment situation wasn't so bad in Chicago that Tom Jones, colored boy who acted as sparring mate for King Levinsky, was enamored of that sort of toil....at $10 a day....Jones asked for $25 a day and was shown the portals....of course, lots of people are crazy about that kind of work, if you get what I mean....Arnie Horwicz's father 40 years ago came to America from Russia, got a job as a tanner in Chicago and is now owner of a large leather factory.

BOBBY JONES NOW IS JUST ANOTHER SATURDAY GOLFER

Changes to Careless, Jubilant Youngster With Title Cares Gone

BY DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Staff Writer
ATLANTA—(AP)—There's a standing golf date for four Atlanta business men early every Saturday afternoon at the East Lake country club here.

One of the quartet is a short chunky 28 year old player, sometimes called the greatest golfer the world has ever known. The others are his father and two close friends.

Business worries end at Saturday noon for the junior and senior members of the law firm of Jones, Evans, Powers and Jones, and 1:30 generally finds the foursome ready to drive off for the first tee.

Occasionally Bobby Jones finds time for a round during the week, but every Saturday he plays with his father, Robert P. Jones, Chick Ridley and "Tess" Bradshaw. Ridley sells automobiles and Bradshaw sells insurance. Both have known Bobby since childhood.

Bob generally pairs with his dad and give his opponents six strokes for each nine holes.

This round with his buddies is about all the time the young lawyer, Robert Tyne Jones, Jr., now can give to the game that brought him fame wherever golf is known.

Bobby gets a real kick out of this play. His friends see an almost careless, jubilant youngster enjoying his occasional poor shot or short put.

JUST ANOTHER MEMBER

Let Bobby play on any other course and you'll find a gallery following him, but at East Lake he's just another member.

Everyone has a friendly greeting for Bob but it is seldom that the others trail him. Bobby admittedly is enjoying golf more than he has for years. His love for the game and with tournament play a thing of the past, Bobby can drive, chip and putt without worrying about his shots. He's reverting to the Jones of a decade ago, unburdened by crowns.

And occasionally—when there are no onlookers—the other members of the foursome see a rare sight. Bobby actually throws down a club when Calamity Jane, the putter, or his midiron behaves badly.

In addition to his law work, Bobby is a director of the National Bank, vice-president of the Atlanta Baseball Club of the Southern Association and local counsel for one of the south's leading railroads. These positions keep him busy most of the week and every day he has to decline invitations to attend gatherings here and in other Georgia cities.

"I'd like to go to all of them, but I've wasted too much time already. I've got to get down to business," Bobby says.

MAY SUTTON BUNDY WILL TEACH TENNIS

Los Angeles—(AP)—Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, former women's national tennis champion and twice winner of the English title has deserted the amateurs to teach tennis at a school for girls in Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Bundy recalled last night she had sacrificed her amateur standing to aid her sister Florence Sutton, long a tennis teacher at the Santa Barbara school, whose health failed a month ago.

"In no sense did I turn professional for the monetary returns involved," Mrs. Bundy said.

Violet Sutton, now Mrs. Hope Doeg, mother of Johnny Doeg, present holder of the national championship, and her sisters, Florence and May comprised a famous court trio a quarter of a century ago.

Mrs. Bundy, who is the wife of the former doubles champion, as May Sutton, won the national title in 1905 and won the English title in 1906 and 1907.

Charlie Ketzlaff, young Duluth heavyweight boxer, has scored more than 20 knockouts in the year and a half he has been fighting professionally. He has yet to lose a match.

Minnesota made 45 changes in its football line-up during a game with South Dakota.

Baseball Moguls May Operate On Home Run

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1930

NEW YORK—(CPA)—Realizing that a meeting of the rules committee is actually to be held in December, the owners of baseball clubs are dividing into two groups—those who would see the home run unlimited and untrammeled, and those who think the home run is the victim of overproduction and would like to see this ponderous—at times not so ponderous—a feat of the individual batsman made worth while.

There is no desire to cut down the number of real home runs, if they represent actual batting prowess. Five owners of 16 in the major league think the home run is less a test of hand hitting than of fortunate batting. This is because there are certain fields on which home runs can be made if the ball happens to hit on a spot that is controlled by a ground rule.

When amendments were made to the playing rules in 1926, the able citizens who composed the rules committee were prevailed upon to increase the distance for a home run from 235 to 250 feet. It was earnestly sought to increase the legal length of a home run to 300 feet, but this appeared to be too radical a departure at that time. There was also to be taken into consideration

PRO FOOTBALL TOUGH RACKET, CAGLE SAYS

New York—(AP)—Chris Cagle agrees that football is a tough racket as the professionals play it.

"There's no fooling about this professional football," the famous redhead said. "And when they tackle they mean it."

Cagle made his pro debut with the New York Giants on Sunday and was hurt early in the first period when he collided with Tom Nash of the Green Bay Packers. Cagle suffered a deep gash in his head and Nash a broken nose. Nash was through for the day but Cagle returned to the lineup late in the game.

Commenting on Green Bay's forward wall Cagle said: "I never thought or believed a line could be so tough. Both teams fought bitterly but there was no unnecessary roughness."

ANDY DURR WINS FROM THOMAS AT GREEN BAY SHOW

Fans Disapprove Decision; New Londoner Had Edge In First Rounds

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE
WINSTON "Windy" Thomas, New London, lost the nod to Andy Durr, Milwaukee, in the windup of the amateur fight, card staged at the Columbus Community club, Green Bay, Monday night. The decision did not set well with many of the fans and they set up a howl when it was announced.

The two youngsters are a mighty fine match and they staged a great battle which revealed plenty of boxing skill and no little hard hitting. Both opened fast and maintained a fast pace throughout the bout. Thomas seemed to have an edge in the first two rounds, with Durr the edge in the third. Durr kept after Thomas throughout the bout and any edge he had probably came from that feature. In this writer's opinion, a fourth round would have been very much in order. Perhaps the boys can carry on again at Armory G one night.

Two Appleton Boys, Clarence Kostitzke and Frank Weyenberg, appeared on the card and both were defeated. Kostitzke did too much rushing and hugging to get the verdict, his best effort being a continual attack against his opponent's left kidney.

Weyenberg made a bid for honors in the third round of his fight finding his opponent, Al Walter, Green Bay, open for an underdog that started from the floor. Walter withstood the attack, however, and got the nod primarily through his in fighting.

Fans who like a lot of blood and some old fashioned slugging got their money's worth in the semi windup which featured Art Van Ess, Green Bay and Johnnie Simo, Sheboygan. Van Ess won the nod despite the fact he was almost a goner on a couple occasions. Simo, a rugged youth also took a lot of punishment and was a bloody mess at the final gong.

TULANE, ALABAMA HOLD SOUTHERN INTEREST

Atlanta—(AP)—Feverish activity characterized the southern sports scene today as major football eleven polished up for a Thanksgiving finish filled with potential dynamite.

Alabama, unbeaten thus far, is being primed to combat the fierce charge of Georgia, conqueror of Yale and X. Y. U. Tulane, fighting to retain his 1929 conference title, is preparing for a traditional test against Louisiana State. Tulane is favored.

INJURED HAND FORCES MC LARNIN TO TAKE REST

New York—(AP)—An injured right hand probably will force Jimmy McLarnin out of action for the next four months. Jimmy plans to return to Vancouver and undergo treatment by a Canadian bone specialist.

McLarnin's hand was injured in the second round of his recent bout with Billy Petrolle and at the end of the fight was swollen to twice its normal size.

Dartmouth Probably Will Pay For Stanford Losses

BY LAWRENCE PERRY Copyright 1930

NEW YORK—(CPA)—Dartmouth is now en route to Palo Alto, where Stanford will be encountered a week from today. The team takes with it the hopes but not the optimism of eastern critics who have seen it in action. In fact, general belief in this section is that the green is in for a complete shipwreck.

Rating the team on the basis of the highest Dartmouth standards it is well below par, but on the other hand it ranks pretty well with the Hanover average.

This eleven reminds one of certain athletes in various sports, men who make a monkey out of weak opposition and look like a million dollars, only to degenerate into mediocrity when the going is rough.

The team ran roughshod over Norwich and Boston University, two elevens of minor grade, and swamped Columbia, 25 to 0. But Harvard, while defeated, gave the green a feverish afternoon; so did Cornell, and the outfit was tied by Yale, a team by no means up to the Eli standard.

They say of Pop Warner that his great predilection in recent years has been the defeat of eastern elevens. He, an easterner, takes a peculiar enjoyment in this and very often has he pointed his eleven more for late season intersectional contests than he has for games against neighboring rivals. This season his situation was somewhat different. He wanted very much to beat Southern California and headed his eleven for this contest.

But unfortunately the Cardinals went into a bitter contest on a hot day against Santa Clara. The heat and the high pressure, however, team experienced took a lot of tuck out of the men. And next week the team went to Minnesota, where the Gophers were tackled on another hot day. This, too, was a demoralizing encounter.

Next came Oregon State, nobody's set-up, and the Cardinals had to go to win. And so came Southern California. Stanford was about as fit to meet this particular bunch of touchdown makers as Jack Dempsey would be at this time to take on Jack Sharkey. The result was a 14 to 12 beating. Since then affairs have been going more easily for the Cardinals, the road has been smoother, less filled with bumps.

So the feeling is that Dartmouth must prepare herself to pay through the nose for all that Stanford has suffered thus far, and it will surprise most of us if she does not.

LEO DIEGEL WINS OREGON OPEN MEET

Frank Walsh, Former Butte des Morts Pro, Gets 296; Ties for Sixth

Portland, Ore.—(AP)—Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, professional, held the Oregon open golf championship today by virtue of shooting sub-par golf to defeat Gene Sarazen, New York, in their 18 hole title playoff.

Diegel clubbed out a 69 yesterday, three under par, to beat Sarazen's even par 72 over the difficult Columbia Country club course. Both had tied at 237 for the regular 72 holes.

The total purse was $2,500, of which Diegel won $600 and Sarazen, $500.

Steady putting and deadly approaches to the greens gave the victory to Diegel. He had four birdies.

LITTLE CHUTE GRID TEAM BEATS DE PERE

St. John High School Wins Over St. Norbert High Team, 25 to 6

Little Chute—Speed and spirit won a hard fought battle for St. John high school football team of Little Chute Sunday afternoon from the St. Norbert high school team of Depere, on the home field. Although the first quarter showed definitely that the footwork of the home squad was superior to that of the Depere aggregation, both teams fought hard and died bravely throughout the game. The defensive playing of the Little Chute team was especially good. The score was 25 to 6.

The first touchdown for St. John was made by an end run for which "Amy" Hammen has become famous. Credit must, however, also be given for fine interference work. The extra point was given because the Depere team happened to be offside. The second touchdown was made by Nicholas Jansen and toward the end of the quarter "Lefty" Versteeg blocked a punt and "Pete" Waldenberg picked up the ball and put it across the line for the third score.

In the second quarter St. Norbert made its only score. A fumble by St. Johns gave the ball to the visitors close to the goal. During the third quarter Captain Jansen intercepted a pass and by some artful dodging managed to run 60 yards for a touchdown. The final period was scoreless. The lineup which held good for practically the whole game was as follows: Peter Waldenberg, right end; Leo Kroner, right tackle; John Vander Toll, right guard; "Lefty" Versteeg, center; Harold De Bruin, left guard; C. Vanden Boom, left tackle; Norbert Lucassen, left end; St. Willem, fullback; A. Hammen, left halfback; N. Jansen, right halfback; D. Lamers, quarterback.

ANDY HIGH GOES BACK TO THE MINOR LEAGUES

St. Louis, Mo.—(AP)—Little Andy High, one of Dazzy Vance's big problems, is going back to the minors. The veteran infielder, who has been hitting in the final St. Louis-Brooklyn series last fall now two straight games when the Cardinals needed them most, has been sold to Rochester of the International league, the Cardinals business office announced today. Rochester is a Cardinal farm. High has been a colorful major leaguer chiefly because of his ability to rise to great heights in emergencies, and for his ability to hit Brooklyn's famous Dazzler.

KANSAS U. STAR OUT OF EAST-WEST GAME

Lawrence, Kas.—(AP)—Jarring Jim Bausch, the much publicized half-back from K. U. has hung up his football togs for good this season. The scoring leader of the Big Six has wired his regrets to Dana X. Bible, University of Nebraska coach, who invited him to play on the west's team in the annual east-west game scheduled to be played at San Francisco. Bausch said he had decided he would rather prepare for the Jayhawk's basketball season than to continue his gridiron activities this season.

Sports Question Box

Question—What is your opinion of King Levinsky and Battling Bozo? Answer—Neither fighter can be classed as outstanding in their respective classes. Their fights are of the ordinary in that they can be beaten by ordinary competition and yet furnish an upset by whipping good men.

Question—My team kicked off over the goal line. The other team tried to pick up the ball but it got out of hand and went out of bounds behind the goal line. What is the ruling? Answer—It is a touchback.

Question—Where is the first game of each world series played? Answer—In the alternating league city. This year the first game was played in the American League city, and next year it will be played in the city of the National League winner.

Kaukauna News

NEW POSTOFFICE FOR KAUKAUNA IS SOUGHT BY GROUP

Advancement Association to Discuss Proposal at Next Meeting

Kaukauna—Kaukauna will ask the government to build a new postoffice here. The matter will be taken up by the Kaukauna Advancement Association at a meeting Wednesday evening at Hotel Kaukauna. The meeting will begin with a 7:30 dinner.

The postoffice now is located in the municipal building, where it has been for about nine years. Before this time there were postoffices on both the north and south sides of the city. The government's lease on the utility building will expire next February. If a new building would be built it probably would be near the present site.

Agitation for a new postoffice building was started here early this year, but nothing definite was done. Dr. W. C. Sullivan, who was mayor at that time, stated then that the city had had a good chance to receive a new building, as many cities on the list for new postoffices were taken care of. He said that buildings built for this purpose in cities of the size of Kaukauna were erected at a cost of approximately $50,000.

A chairman for the annual Mid-Winter fair will be named. The city has been granted the sum of $1,000 for the fair by the county board. W. P. Hagman was the general chairman of the event for the past two years. The meeting probably will be the last this year, as the December meeting is usually cancelled on account of the holiday season.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL ENDS NEXT THURSDAY

Kaukauna—The annual Red Cross roll call will end here Thursday. Mrs. Frances Grogan is in charge of the roll call for this city. Stations for enrollment are at the Farmers and Merchants bank, First National bank, and the Bank of Kaukauna. The call was started on Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

STUDENTS START LAST PERIOD OF SEMESTER

Kaukauna—Students of the high school and Junior high school started on their third last six weeks' period of the first semester of the school year. Reports for the last six weeks' period, finishing last Friday, probably will be issued to the students Wednesday.

ROTARIANS WILL FETE HIGH SCHOOL GRIDDERS

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school Northeastern Wisconsin Interscholastic conference football champions will be feted by the Kaukauna Rotary club Wednesday noon at Hotel Kaukauna. Talks commenting on various games played this season will be given by the players.

"NAKED SOUL" ACTOR DIES

Giovanni Grasso, the noted Sicilian actor, is dead at Catania, Sicily, having succumbed to apoplexy. As the head of the Sicilian players when they toured Europe several years ago, Grasso attracted much attention. The acting of the Sicilians was different from anything seen before in Europe, combining an extraordinary realism and absolute abandon to the natural emotions, which caused critics to say of them that they "stripped the soul naked."

STARVATION WILL BE MINOR CAUSE OF WINTER DEATHS

Distribution of Food Is Principal Problem Confronting Country

BY J. C. RYLE Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Washington—(CPA)—The people of the United States are going to continue to eat this winter no matter what the condition of business or employment. This nation has never had a famine and starvation will account for fewer deaths than nearly any other cause.

In the light of these facts, the problem of distribution is the factor which is engaging the food industries to the exclusion of nearly all other problems. Nearly $13,000,000,000 will be spent for food in 1930, according to figures compiled by government agencies. This sum involves food and kindred products.

The food producers and distributors know they can count on nearly a billion dollars a month from the demand incident to feeding the 122,000,000 people of the country. Their problem is to get the food products to those inhabitants as promptly, expeditiously and cheaply as possible. On that depends their profits. It is far more important than the cost of raw materials. Farm materials are low at present. Wheat is down, meat and vegetables are at reasonable prices. Coffee and tea have dropped. The main thing is to get the products into the hands of consumers at low costs.

FOOD IN TWO GROUPS Food products for the convenience of government statisticians are divided into two groups. The first embraces establishments engaged in production of butter, cheese, condensed milk, meats and other animal products. The other draws its raw commodity supplies from mineral or vegetable sources. It takes in bread and bakery products, flour and all other grain mill products, feeds, confectionery, sugar, canned and preserved fruits and vegetables, beverages and manufactured ice.

Meats are the largest items of the animal product group. Slaughtering and meat packing products this year will total between $3,000,000,000 and $3,100,000,000. Butter, cheese and canned or evaporated milk sales will total approximately $1,100,000,000. Fish will account for around $700,000,000. Ice cream consumption will total about $310,000,000.

Bread and other bakery products, flour and grain mill production will have a total value of $2,500,000,000. Canned and preserved fruits and vegetables will gross about $500,000,000. Prepared cereals may drop to $150,000,000, but chewing gum sales are likely to reach $65,000,000. The value of coffee and spices sold will be around $380,000,000, while confectionery will account for nearly $400,000,000. The sugar bill of the nation will approximate $55,000,000, while vinegar and cider sales will in all probability exceed $10,000,000.

PRICES LOWER NOW There are wholesale prices. Moreover, they represent a decided fall in the general price level of commodities as compared with a year or two ago. Some of the lower cost of raw materials has been passed on to consumers, but not all. And if these huge sums are to be turned into a margin of profit, even a narrow one, costs of distribution must come down. This has been the motive behind many of the consolidations of food products companies. In some cases the amalgamations have yielded reductions in cost. In others the mergers have not been so successful. However, the general level of efficiency in distribution is being steadily raised to the benefit of both producer and consumer.

The prosperity of the food producing companies is of importance to all other businesses, especially at the moment, because the annual payrolls of the plants manufacturing or preparing articles of food total around $25,000,000 a year. Such a sum represents tremendous buying power for all businesses.

Lisbon—(AP)—Competition of hawkers and street peddlers is making such serious inroads into stabilized trade that the National Association of Tradesmen has petitioned authorities to take measures to suppress the itinerant trade.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GROUP IN CONFERENCE

Milwaukee, Wis.—(AP)—Representatives of 155 Wisconsin cities Monday took part in the meeting of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce. They were told by President R. S. Kingsley, Kenosha, that the body believes "in all matters self-regulation is better than government regulation." He added, however, that the chamber is interested in all legislation that will aid permanent development of the state.

The organization does not propose to make itself a lobbying institution, but will keep in contact with the legislatures through its local contacts in the constituencies of the members.

Walter A. Olen, Clintonville, president of the Four-Wheel Drive Automobile company, spoke in behalf of through-route roads and general road improvement.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR BLIND GIRL Miss Hazel Winter, a blind girl of London who won an open scholarship for history at Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford University, has just entered Oxford. WOMEN SHOULD LEARN USES OF MAGNESIA

To women who suffer from nausea, or so-called "morning sickness," the simple measure is proving a blessing. Most nurses know it and it is advised by leading specialists. Prepare a small quantity of finely cracked ice—about a wineglassful. Pour over it a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Sip slowly until the mixture is gone or you are entirely relieved. It is seldom necessary to repeat the dose to end sick stomach or any inclination to vomit.

Its antacid properties enable Phillips Milk of Magnesia to give immediate relief in heartburn, sour stomach, gas. Its mild but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement. Used as a mouthwash it helps prevent acid erosion and tooth decay during expectancy.

With every bottle of Phillips Milk of Magnesia, come full directions for its many uses. All drug stores have the 5¢ and 50¢ sizes. Demand the genuine, endorsed by doctors for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875. adv.

PLANS OUTLINED BY COOPERATIVE

Officers Discuss Activities With Members Around Shawano

BY W. F. WINSEY Shawano—The cooperatively minded farmers of Shawano county assembled here Monday in the Community Hall in a final get-together meeting to acquaint members of the Consolidated Badger Cooperative with the work of their organization committee which they selected on Sept. 15 when the program and plans for the drive for members in the county was developed.

The organization work has progressed rapidly with the best dairy farmers in the county taking the lead, working day and night, to present the aims and plans of the organization and to urge the cooperation of all the dairy farmers in the splendid program to help themselves, according to Attorney M. Wallich.

"The Consolidated Badger Cooperative, a farmer-owned, farmer-controlled, and farmer-operated dairy manufacturing organization, was only a dream less than a year ago, and today it is a vital and an active organization by which over nine hundred farmers have already shown their intention of helping themselves," said Wallich. "The organization committee has faced many hardships, has received much criticism, and at times considerable abuse, but believing earnestly that the program is sound and right, the committee members have answered all sentimental attacks merely with facts, and that the facts have won out is proved conclusively by the manner in which the farmers of every township of Shawano county have each contributed their share and shouldered their burden in the organization work."

"Every member planned his work so as to attend this meeting, and work with his fellow members in developing a program under the leadership of F. A. Cornea the general manager of the National Cheese Producers' Federation; Emerson Elna, the general manager of the North Wisconsin Tobacco Pool; Mr. Hobart of Washington, representing the Federal Farm Board; and the entire organization committee of the Consolidated Badger Cooperative."

"The time for waiting has passed and a program of action will be mapped out to complete the work of the organization, and the attention of the agricultural leaders of the country."

INTERNATIONAL ROUTE Montreal—Plans for a dirigible route between Montreal, New York, and Cardington, England, have started to materialize as a result of the recent successful voyage of the English dirigible R-101. The second is a direct route via Newfoundland, and the third is by way of the Azores Islands.

NOW SEE WHAT KONJOLA DID FOR THIS MAN

Declares That, In Two Weeks, New Medicine Made Him Feel Twenty Years Younger

"Two bottles of Konjola seems to have made me feel twenty years younger," said Mr. John T. Sullivan, age 81, 202 South Main street, Aberdeen, N. D. "In June, 1922, I went to a hospital where I had two operations performed and remained fourteen weeks. This marked the beginning of my decline in health. I was weak, my nights were restless and I suffered a great deal from gas forming after meals. Constipation was another trouble. "Recommendations of Konjola attracted my attention, and I bought two bottles. I was amazed at the improvement in my health, and today I find myself stronger and with more energy than in years. No gas forms; constipation is relieved and my nights are filled with sleep. I acknowledge with thanks the present of a two weeks treatment of this splendid medicine." So it goes, the same splendid story of success whenever Konjola is given a chance to prove its merits. One does not have long to wait for results once Konjola is put to the test, but a full course of from six to eight bottles is urged if best results are to be obtained. Konjola is sold in Appleton, Wis., at Schilts Bros. Drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

DAGGER

by Mary Dahlberg

Chapter 22
A VOICE OUT OF THE PAST.
JAGGER put one hand to her throat, and swallowed hard. The past was the past. Foolish to yield to it. And yet—she started again to read the note from the Duc de Pontoise, and one of the phrases suddenly rang out with a familiar note. "The responsibility of the well-born."

She had heard that before. And her eyes strayed down the sheet to the signature: Raoul de Senac, Duc de Pontoise. Surely, that name meant something to her. Had Jack mentioned it? No, she was sure he hadn't. And then as suddenly as before, a warmth of memory suffused her; there was a creak of leather in her ears, and far-off the loving of cattle. Texas! Phrases snapped vividly in her mind—

As different as four men could be. Raoul de Senac—he was the first... he had Charlemagne's blood in his veins... a great aristocrat—who believes in the responsibility of the well-born."

Dagger gasped. But of course! It had been Howard, Howard telling her of his pilgrimage in search of light. De Senac was Howard's friend before he became Jack's. She laughed to herself on a faint note of hysteria. How strange, how bafflingly strange. Then, tonight, she had established contact with the friend of the two men who had loved her, whom she had loved.

For an instant she had a sensation of nearness both to Elaine and Jack. It was as if they were crowding in upon her, their spirits blurring hers. But as quickly as the sensation had developed it was gone, and she heard dimly her maid, speaking from the bedroom door.

"Pardon, Madame, your bath is ready."

Half an hour later, Dagger sat at her dressing-table, soothed and relaxed beyond her expectations. Marie's skillful hands, yielding the brush upon her hair, a pleasant chatter of gossip driving unpleasant thoughts from her mind—

The room-telephone tingled abruptly. "Madame's car is at the door."

"We must hurry," said Dagger. "Here I have been dreaming when my friends wait dinner for me. My dress—quick, Marie."

A few minutes later the car came to a stop in front of high gates, and presently rolled on into a short driveway, which circled between a patch of lawn and a square-built stone house.

In a doorway on her right Dick Welling appeared with a tall, ash-blond woman, whose willowy figure and perfect features seemed to Dagger to constitute an ideal combination of aristocratic beauty.

While the slow, drawing impression of humor and feeling. Much to her surprise, Dagger realized that she was going to like Emily.

"So this is Dagger!" Emily exclaimed. "From all Dick's tales I expected a cowgirl in boots and breeches—one's ideas are colored by the films, perhaps. And you are a woman of the world! Dick, you never said your Dagger was so lovely."

"You mustn't turn my head," laughed Dagger. "And if there's anything you like about me, Dick is responsible. He was the closest to a father I had."

Emily put an arm around her, and kissed her—and Dagger, who loathed women's caresses, as a rule, was touched. "I owe you very much, my dear," Emily said a trifle huskily. "I don't know what Dick would have done during those unhappy years, but for you and that precious uncle of yours—But let's not talk of it!"

Dagger was surprised at herself a second time. "Those unhappy years?" The years Emily had been Howard's wife! But instinctively Dagger had grasped that the woman intended them to be no reflection upon the husband she had lost. They were years that had been unhappy for all three persons concerned, and the fact of unhappiness was not to be blamed upon any one of

INDIAN'S LUMBER MILLS REALIZED PROFIT LAST YEAR

Commissioner Submits Annual Report to Secretary of Interior

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington — The Menominee Indian's lumber mills made a profit in the fiscal year 1930, despite very adverse conditions, Charles J. Rhoads, commissioner of Indian affairs, reported to Secretary of the Interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur Monday.

The Indian population of Wisconsin and the advancement of health of Wisconsin Indians were also reported by Commissioner Rhoads. During the last fiscal year, which ended on June 30, the logging railroad on the Menominee reservation was extended 13 miles across the Wolf and Oconto rivers into the northeastern township of the reservation. A narrow strip of timber, principally hemlock and hardwoods, is to be logged selectively, now that this portion of the railroad is completed, and the timber will be taken to the Neopit sawmills for manufacture. This timber, which was left when the more valuable and floatable pine was taken out through the Wolf and Oconto rivers more than 30 years ago, is inferior in quality, Rhoads said, and its logging will necessarily be expensive.

"It is unfortunate," the commissioner commented, "that it should be logged when the market is so weak. However, plans directed to the conservation of logging operations in the future seem to demand the entering of this favorite territory at this time."

MAP FUTURE PLANS

Following a comprehensive study of the forest growth, on cut-over lands on the Menominee reservation, the Bureau of Indian Affairs has laid out plans for future logging and reforestation. The past year's forest planting on Menominee reservation was made along State Highway No. 57, "where the results attained will afford a constant object lesson, not only to the Menominee Indians, but also to the hundreds of thousands of tourists passing along the road each season," Commissioner Rhoads said. "The site is not particularly favorable one, being very sandy, but was selected because of its proximity to a main thoroughfare of the plantation from forest fire."

During the last fiscal year, the Indian bureau began work on the 47-bed Hayward hospital and added 24-bed pavilions to the Keshona hospital for tubercular and venereal cases.

The Indian population of Wisconsin, as shown by the 1930 census, exclusive of the Red Cliff and Stockbridge reservations and the Rice Lake band of Chippewas, consisted of 10,301 Indians, of whom 5,203 were male and 5,098 female.

They were divided as follows:

Hayward school jurisdiction and Lac Court Oreille reservation (Chippewas), 751 males, 781 females of whom 4 males and 2 females lived at another jurisdiction and 33 males and 35 females lived elsewhere.

Under the Keshona agency were 4,575 Indians, of whom 1,923 were under the jurisdiction of the Menominee reservation and 3,046 were under that of the Oneida reservation. The Menominees consisted of 995 males and 933 females. Of these 5 males and 12 females lived at other jurisdictions and 82 males and 102 females lived elsewhere.

The Oneidas consisted of 1,552 males and 1,494 females of whom 46 are males and 50 females lived at other jurisdictions and 847 males and 819 lived elsewhere.

Accredited to the Lac du Flambeau reservation were 931 males and 438 females, of whom one male lived at another jurisdiction and 80 males and 83 females lived elsewhere.

Scattered bands of the Potawatomi were made up of 327 males and 192 females, of whom 4 males and

Centerpiece And Bouquets Of Fresh Vegetables Add Real Zest To Traditional Thanksgiving Menu

BY JULIA BLANCHARD

New York — Pepping up the Thanksgiving dinner—and the diners' appetites—is a worthy task set the modern hostess. You must have turkey and its accessories. You can, however, change the aspect of the Thanksgiving table and put zest into the meal by revolutionizing and modernizing the centerpiece and the appetizers. Everybody is tired of the good old fruit group as a decorative motif. Likewise the usual autumn flowers, even if they step out of vases and into hollowed-out pumpkins. This year there is something brand new in the way of Thanksgiving dinner table decorations. Vegetables! Fresh, raw, thoroughly washed and dressed vegetables, artistically arranged. You'd be surprised how attractive they look, grouped artistically in the middle of your best damask, crystal, polished silver and gleaming candle light.

VARIETY OF DESIGNS

What you can do in the way of entertaining innovations for the appetizers and the salads also is worth looking into. Vegetables have arrived artistically—and in the raw! Decide first of all whether you want a round centerpiece or an oval

one. If you want a round one, a perfect head of curly cabbage, the Italian variety, is scrumptious set on a low round table mirror or a silver dish. Surround it with four small summer squashes, the little round greenish-white kind with pretty fluted edges. Alternate these with cucumbers, pointing out from the cabbage. Or carrots pointing in. Red cabbage has an autumn look about it. It is lovely for the centerpiece, with arichokes around it, filled in with mushrooms.

For an oval piece, use a fruit bowl, or a wooden nut dish of that shape. For the center of the round, use a perfect cauliflower, or a big, gleaming eggplant. Around the cauliflower you may group artichokes and small eggplants, with watercress and mushrooms making a pretty contrast. If you use the eggplant, put it in a nest of fresh spinach, with a fluted white squash at each end and polished beets around the sides.

USE PERFECT VEGETABLES

There is no end to the variety and color combinations you can get. Just be sure that every vegetable you use is perfect. Your guests' appreciation will be thanks enough for your trouble.

Another innovation is the vegetable bouquet placed at each place for a favor—and incidentally to eat, because it is made of appetizers. Besides the appetizers, which might include celery, watercress, radishes, olives and parsley, you will need some tin foil, lace paper doilies and a good pair of kitchen scissors.

Build your bouquets as you would an old-fashioned nosegay, packed tight. In the center put a large radish, and around it place pieces of celery, with the ends curled. Next add stuffed olives on toothpicks, and around this pack watercress or parsley. Place the lace doily so that the stems come through the center and the edges form a holder. Wrap a piece of tin foil around the ends and your bouquet is complete. Since they are new, your guests are bound to exclaim as they find one beside their plates.

For your fruit cup to start your meal, you can halve your oranges and put the skins together again for a container for your sliced fruit, or you can make a basket by carefully cutting the orange skin of one side and the other side scalloped at the center.

IN FORM OF A TURKEY

If you ever have made a bird-of-paradise salad, a turkey salad will be simple. Take one tomato for each salad, pour boiling water over them to take the skin off easily, and chill. Use the white or faintly-green celery leaves for the tail and to stick out of the sides for wings. The neck and head are made by molding cream cheese around a toothpick. A quarter of a peanut is the beak and a tiny piece of caviar the eyes. Sprinkle paprika pepper to give the effect of his red crop. Perch him on lettuce leaves and have the mayonnaise at the side.

Even the cheese for the pumpkin or mince pie may be decorative. Have it sliced for you at the store, in even thin slices. Then use a cookie cutter or you can cut up your own shapes with scissors.

None of these tricks of decoration are a heavy strain on the hostess. And each adds that piquant something called interest to the meal. Stick to the usual menu, but change the decorations. It is a simple way to achieve individuality in the Thanksgiving dinner.

POULTRY SCARGER, BUT PRICES ARE LOWER TOO

BY W. F. WINSEY

New London—Although duck and goose in the towns of Maple Creek, Liberty and Horton are scarce than last year, the prices that local dealers are offering are lower too. The prices offered this winter are 18 cents for dressed ducks and 12 cents a pound for dressed geese. Some of the women have already marketed their birds but others are planning on holding theirs for Christmas. If the prices do not raise the women are planning on collectively trucking their poultry to the Milwaukee market.

Organization Shows Appreciable Advancement, Officer Finds

BY RUBY A. BLACK

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—The condition of the Wisconsin National Guard during the fiscal year 1930, which ended on June 30, 1930, was highly satisfactory and showed appreciable advancement along all lines, according to the annual report of Major General William G. Everson, chief of the Militia Bureau, to the secretary of war.

A similar satisfactory condition characterized by loyalty and enthusiasm of officers, excellent facilities for training, and good discipline is reported for the entire sixth corps area, which includes Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan. The only weak points in the organization of the National Guard in this area are reported, by the area commander, as insufficient training of the Field Artillery communications personnel, how artillery drill attendance in one state, shortage of animals for supply and medical units, and a lack of officers in staff groups of the Infantry units.

The sixth corps area commander recommended to General Everson the motorization of horse-drawn parts of the Field Artillery, the organization of additional units, the issuance of modern radio equipment and special machine-gun carts to all Infantry regiments, an increased number of officers sent to service schools, and increased allowance of ammunition.

JUST OVER LIMIT

On June 30, 1930, the strength of the Wisconsin National Guard was reported at 4,590 men, of whom 343 were commissioned officers, six were warrant officers, and the remaining 4,511, enlisted men. This total enrollment was just 12 over the authorized enrollment for the Badger state. Illinois had a total of 9,943 National Guardsmen or 337 over the authorized number, while Michigan had 4,615, six below its quota.

Appropriations totaling $238,778.89 were allotted to the Wisconsin National Guard during the fiscal year 1930. The money was used for arming, equipping, and training, and for field service.

In the number of men attending its two National Guard training camps, Wisconsin led the sixth corps area, with 6,320. At Camp Williams, which is a state owned camp exclusively for the National Guard, 3,079 men attended, while at Camp McCoy, a federally owned camp open to the regular army, citizens' military training camp and other army organizations, 6,521 men registered. Illinois, in the same period of time, trained 6,142 men at its Camp Grant, and Michigan had 4,296 at Camp Grayling.

Wisconsin is eighth among the states in the number of National Guard officers sent to service schools during the 10-year period from 1920 to 1930. It has sent 80 of its officers for this invaluable training, upon which, according to General Everson, the efficiency of the National Guard depends. The only states surpassing this record are: Illinois, 106; Massachusetts, 131; New York, 177; Ohio, 109; Pennsylvania, 148; Texas, 127; and Oklahoma, 31.

BEACH POWDER

London—Flappers and matrons may soon be powdering their faces with a material made from tiny creatures of the sea. Millions of tiny diatoms build tiny shells in the sea and then die, leaving their homes empty. These form diatomaceous earth and experiments conducted by scientists have produced a powder suitable for facial use. It is expected that this earth will take the place of rice and starch powders now in use.

3 males lived at jurisdictions of other tribes.

The Omaha school jurisdiction and public domain allotment (Winnebago) counted 858 men and boys, and 690 women and girls, of whom, 60 males and 83 females lived at other jurisdictions and 39 males and 35 females lived elsewhere.

A special census of the Rice Lake band of Chippewas was taken in July showed 221 members of this band. There are possibly a thousand Indians in the state formerly accredited to the Red Cliff and Stockbridge reservations.

PREFERS "MRS. WINGO" TO "REPRESENTATIVE"

Washington (AP)—She prefers "Mrs. Wingo" to "Representative," and declines to talk politics. She hopes to avoid the limelight. Thus the second Arkansas widow has quietly assumed the duties in the house which were taken from her husband by death.

Otis Wingo died less than a month ago, after 17 years in congress. Within a fortnight his constituents elected Mrs. Wingo to succeed him. She closed the door on her home scene and stepped into the activities of the office in the capital.

For inspiration, Mrs. Wingo has turned to her closest friend—Mrs. Pearl Peden Oldfield, the other Arkansas, who suffered a similar misfortune precisely two years previously, and rose to meet it as Mrs. Wingo. Though Mrs. Oldfield has declined to run again, she will be in congress this session. The two women did not know each other at home, but became close friends in Washington.

Together, in the gay early years of the first Wilson administration, she found the means of efficient life. Mrs. Wingo was ready to apply that experience when her husband was injured in an automobile accident, three years ago. She was with him constantly after that, actively aiding him in his recovery. She anticipated his complete recovery, however; they were planning a trip home when he was fatally stricken with pneumonia.

WET CONGRESSMEN FROM STATE WRITE UP NINE MEASURES

Action on Any of Them Will Depend Upon Three Matters

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington — With prohibition leading all other topics in interest, possibly excepting unemployment, there are before congress nine measures introduced by Wisconsin "wet" congressmen concerning the present prohibition laws.

Whether or not there is any action on any of these measures, or any similar measures introduced by other congressmen, during the short session depends upon three things not yet known: The report of the "Volstead" commission; the President's message to congress; and the filibustering powers of "dry" congressmen, who could easily block action on any proposal to modify the Volstead act, if the Wickersham commission and the president should recommend modification.

Action on prohibition might more readily be taken in the 72nd congress, which will have more "wets," but still not a majority of "wets." Wisconsin now has five "dry" congressmen among its delegation of 11, but in the 72nd congress there will be only three "drys" from Wisconsin—Representative James A. Frear of Hudson, Henry Allen Cooper of Racine, and John M. Nelson of Madison. The outgoing "drys" are Representative Edward E. Browne of Waupaca and Merlino Hull of Black River Falls, both defeated by "wet progressives" in the primary.

SCHAFER OFFERS FIVE

Five of the prohibition bills were introduced by Rep. John C. Schaffer of Milwaukee, one by Rep. Charles A. Kading of Watertown, one by Rep. Hubert H. Peavey of Washburn, one by the late Rep. Florian Lampert of Oshkosh, who is to be succeeded on Dec. 1 by the "wet" Democrat, Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, and one by Sen. John J. Blaine of Escabeell.

None of these bills has been acted upon by the committees to which they were referred.

Reps. Schaffer, Kading, Peavey, and Lampert all introduced bills to amend the Volstead act to authorize $75 per cent beer and fermented fruit juices. Rep. Schaffer introduced a bill to repeal the Volstead act and enact a law giving each state control over intoxicating liquors.

Rep. Schaffer's other three bills apply to the enforcement of all federal laws, but are especially designed to meet conditions brought about by prohibition. One prohibits the tapping of telephone and telegraph wires and prohibits the use of information gained by wire-tapping as evidence in civil suits and criminal proceedings. Another provides that no federal officer shall have authority to take human life except in self-defense. The third would punish officers, agents, or employees of the United States for entering and searching private dwellings without a properly executed search warrant, providing penalties of one year to 10 years in prison for such actions.

Recent developments in the prohibition question may cause Wisconsin congressmen to introduce still other prohibition bills in the short session. The answers to the questionnaire of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment revealed that Wisconsin "wets" formerly concentrated on modification are now in favor of working for outright repeal.

Sen. Blaine, however, is the only member of the Wisconsin delegation who has, as yet, introduced a measure for repeal of the prohibition amendment. He put in a joint resolution last January proposing that a constitutional amendment be submitted to the states for ratification simply repealing the eighteenth amendment.

Of course, no action has been taken on the Blaine resolution, and the committee on the judiciary, headed by the dry Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, has not held hearings on it, or on any other measures for modification or repeal of prohibition laws.

EUROPEAN DOG RACING HIT

Scandal has hit dog racing in Europe a hard blow recently. Rumors of doping, mysterious running, unexpected results and other factors are shaking the confidence of the sporting public. This is affecting the "gate," and may kill the sport before Spring.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Norway Will Celebrate King's Reign Of 25 Years

Oslo, Norway.—(AP)—All Norway was enfeate today in honor of King Haakon VII, who assumed the throne 25 years ago.

At that time Norway had dissolved its historic partnership with Sweden and even was considering establishment of a republic. But the popularity of King Haakon, formerly Prince Charles of Denmark, has driven away all thoughts of a republic. He is a constitutional monarch whose acts are governed by the will of the Norwegian parliament.

So today was to be a holiday throughout Norway. The royal family received a delegation from the Storting and the cabinet and representatives of foreign nations called to offer congratulations.

At night King Haakon will give a dinner at the palace to which all living members of the Storting and cabinet of 1905, the present Storting and cabinet and high officials will be invited.

Norway's monarch takes his name from Haakon VI Magnusson, the last ruler of that name, who died in 1380.

He accepted a call to the throne after the crown had been offered to Prince Carl of Sweden, one of the sons of King Oscar. That was immediately after the union between the two countries had been dissolved, so the offer was not accepted by the Bernadotte family.

By plebiscite it was decided by an overwhelming majority that Norway should remain a kingdom, so the Storting unanimously elected the then Prince Charles of Denmark to be king.

Never in 95 years has he had any friction with the Storting or the administration.

The former Danish prince married his cousin, Princess Maude of England, a daughter of King Edward. Their son, Alexander, 18 months old when his father became king, because Crown Prince Olav.

Trained like any other Norwegian boy, he has been extremely popular with the nation, especially since he married the beautiful daughter of Prince Carl of Sweden, his cousin, Princess Martha.

BUTTER TARIFF PLEA NOT BEFORE U. S. BODY

Washington.—(AP)—Although President Hoover has been in correspondence with Governor Kohler of Wisconsin regarding the butter tariff, the tariff commission has received no formal application for investigation of the present rates.

Chairman Fletcher said today the president had referred the file to the commission, and that he had written Governor Kohler advising him a formal application was necessary.

The previous tariff commission investigated the subject and the duty was increased from 8 cents a pound to 12 cents. The present rate is 14 cents.

Special Dispatch to Post-Crescent

Kansas City, Mo.—(CPA)—Taking it by and large, the farm country is exhibiting some rather curious features in view of three months of declining prices for foodstuffs, a political upheaval that registered more or less disgust with things as they are, and considerable of the "zooch-air" and "awful" brand of conversation.

Football stadiums have shown gatherings of 10,000 to 30,000 during the season—at $3 a seat; conventions have been attended by delegates who taxed the capacity of the large hotels; the American royal stock show here has the largest attendance of its history; up and down the main highways are rising new and more gorgeous filling stations to serve the steady stream of cars rolling over the concrete.

Yet wheat is selling today out in the grain belt for 53 cents a bushel and corn for 58 cents. Producers of wheat have notes in the local bank given to hold wheat which might have brought 70 cents last July, hoping for higher prices. Mostly the notes are good, for eventually the

TRADE DRAGS ALONG

Bank closings, which have occurred too frequently the last few weeks in a great number of instances have been due to lack of business, "running out of money," as a bank commissioner put it.

Trade is dragging along with emphasis on essentials and active large-scale collections are not particularly slow, perhaps because credit is more closely scrutinized than formerly. Unemployment shows up in railroad centers and the larger cities; it is not serious in the farm country or the rural towns.

All of which indicates that the interior is just now passing through the acute stage of a psychological hesitancy as to buying commodities, intensified by the low-price level of products and the determination to await the future. The "buy now" efforts of newspapers and merchants have had only moderate effect. The driving public spends for the things it desires and refuses to go far beyond. Partly, it is short of ready cash; and partly it is uncertain what will be the needs of the coming winter. This hangs over the entire farm country as one factor in its state of mind.

KRIMMER FUR IS POPULAR AGAIN

It Comes in Gray and Black,

New York.—(CPA)—The curly, tight krimmer fur beloved of grandma is so fashionable in Paris that you can hardly get too much of it for trimming on a coat. In gray, in black, and in various dyed shades of brown or tan, it curls itself in bands around the hem of the skirt and of the coat, in cuffs about the sleeves, even in tabs on the shoulders. Often, of course, with a hat of the krimmer to match.

Among the most satisfactory of posies for the edge of the V-neck and also for the coat lapel is the flower of felt. Yes, just plain, soft felt in whatever color you like. The dahlia of felt is particularly successful.
Life size it was recently placed a little to the left of the V-neck on a creamy satin blouse. The dahlia was flame red.
